the end of the depression may not be unimpaired. They found, first, that the annual increase will be much less than that which occurred in other years and secondly that the gasoline consumption rate has increased over that of 1935 much faster than the death rate.

"From 1934 to 1935," Formy said, "fatalities advanced a total of 800 and the 1934 total was nearly 5,000 larger than that of 1933."

While this year's consumption of gasoline is 10 per cent higher than 1935, he explained, the death rate per 10,000,000 gallons of gasoline is 9 per cent below 1935.

"The jump in gasoline consumption," he said, "represents an increased exposure to accidents of about 16,720,000,000 miles of travel."

October maintained its reputation as the "most dangerous" month for motorists and pedestrians, Formy said.

The October report reaffirmed the fact that the traffic accident problem is most acute in small towns and on the open highway. While reporting cities showed a 7 per cent drop in fatalities for October, smaller communities recorded a 14 per cent increase.

New Hampshire, with a 23 per cent reduction, topped the list of 16 states showing reductions from their 1935 totals. Oregon showed reductions for the period ended November 1 were: North Carolina, 13; Connecticut, 11; New Jersey, 9; Maryland, New York and Virginia each 8 per cent; Maine, 7 per cent.

New York city led all cities of more than 500,000 population in effectiveness of its traffic safety campaign, with a death rate of 10.4 per 100,000 of population. Its motor deaths November 1 numbered 623 against 701 for the same period of 1935.

7,000 FIGHTING PLANES REVEALED BY MOSCOW

their own business" and keep away from Fascism.

"If the plans of German Fascists threaten our country, we unto them," declared Corps Commander Khrushin, assistant commander of the Red army air forces in an address before the all-union congress of Soviets.

"Germany says she will have 10,000 fighters in the near future," he said. "We answer we will have at least 100,000. It is not a fantastic figure."

(Italy has been estimated unofficially to have 1,900 airplanes. France's air strength has been kept secret but it has been given as approximately 3,000 airplanes. Britain has 2,000 airplanes, many of which are obsolete. Complete rebuilding, however, is under way.)

"The society for preparedness and defense alone will graduate 8,000 pilots in 1936."

Khrushin's report gave the congress more and more warlike appearance, following yesterday's sessions at which 1,700 per cent increases in naval armaments were revealed and Foreign Minister Maxim Litvinoff charged Germany and Japan had signed a secret military pact which he linked with two far eastern border clashes.

Nearly every speaker has declared Russia's readiness to defeat all comers.

Not Afraid.

"We are not afraid of aerial armament by capitalist countries. We have forged our own powerful air fleet. In quality, quantity and morale it is the most powerful air fleet in the world," Khrushin proclaimed.

"A year ago Marshall Tukhachevsky reported to the seventh congress a 330 per cent increase in aerial armament in four years. Today the number of planes is more than four times that in 1932."

"We have hundreds of new planes with a speed of 450 kilometers per hour. I am happy on behalf of the Red air fleet to report that our machines and men always are ready for action."

There are now 12,000 airplanes for war in "capitalist" countries, he continued, and predicted that within the next two years there would be 18,000.

"That is a terrible figure. If during the whole World War Germany accumulated 27,000 tons of bombs, today this amount would be transported in five flights."

If the planes of German Fascists threaten our country, we unto them. For the Soviets will unleash all its war weapons against them."

JAPAN PLANS ARMY

TOKYO, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Japan, joined with Germany in a pledge against Communism, made known today her desire to build quickly an army equal to that of Soviet Russia.

The huge armament is necessary, the war office declared, to "prevent war and to hold Japan's life line on the (Asiatic) continent," against both China and Russia.

A pamphlet setting forth the war ministry's ambitions was avowedly intended to prepare the nation for large-scale increases in the country's armaments—almost half of the 1936-37 budget appropriation approved last week by cabinet was for armaments.

The army was given $205,000,000 and the navy $194,480,000.

Japan, through Admiral Osami Nagano, minister of marine, announced yesterday that the navy also will be enlarged as soon as parliament approves the new budget estimates.

The war office pamphlet asserted: "Consideration of the military strengths of the Soviet Union and China shows that Japan's continental armaments, so important for national defense, are extremely inadequate. Both to prevent war and to hold Japan's life line on the continent, replenishment of military armaments is a matter of urgent necessity."

Eastern Strength.

"The far eastern strength of the Soviet Union in time of peace is 15 divisions of infantry, 1,000 or so airplanes, divided into more than 100 air units, and about 1,000 tanks. In addition, the Soviets have constructed impregnable fortresses on the border and are in a position to pounce on Manchukuo at a moment's notice, glaring across the frontier with the eyes of a tiger. (Moscow said today her army has 7,000 airplanes.)

"And what is the strength of the Japanese garrison in Manchukuo? Numerically, it is only a third or a fourth of the Soviet, and it has but a fraction of the Soviet planes and tanks. With this weak strength Japan is patrolling a border extending 5,000 kilometers, maintaining peace and order in an area equivalent to France and Germany together and guarding railways extending 10,000 kilometers.

"In a possible future war, enemy planes can be expected, immediately on their outbreak, to attempt raids on Tokyo and the principal military and munitions bases of the country. Were Japan to lack the strength to resist these air raids at the very outset, the country would be placed on the defensive and ultimately be defeated. Along with adequacy of land forces, therefore, the air force must be brought up to invincible strength."

Vital Importance.

"The vital importance of the aerial strength in modern warfare need not be reiterated, but its perfection in parallel with adequacy of land and sea forces is an important factor in preventing war."

To what extent, then, should the air force be expanded? In view of the mobility of air craft, the Japanese air force must be equal to that which the Soviet Union can bring to the far east in wartime.

Such a vast project cannot be achieved within a few years, and, therefore, the army must be satisfied with minimum expansion to begin with. As a power of the nation's air-craft industry is nurtured, gradual expansion should be effected.

"This seems to be the wisest course. But even the minimum will amount to several times the current strength. It must not be ignored, moreover, that the American army and navy have 4,000 planes and that the Chinese have an air force of 850 planes."

"The question is often asked whether arms competition will result if the Soviet Union and Japan expand their armaments. Such competition will naturally be keen for the next few years. The geographical position, traffic facilities and natural resources of the far east, however, impose limitations on the strength which the Soviets can put into the field in this part of the world and which they can replenish."

Other Divisions.

"There are also the four divisions of the Finnish army, the three of the Estonian, the three of the Latvian, the 30 of the Polish and the 21 of the Rumanian, totaling 61 divisions, which the Soviets must provide against along the borders. Nor can they forget the 30 German divisions in the rear. Even to keep peace and order at home requires a considerable force."

The enormous though the army is, the Soviets cannot increase indefinitely their far eastern strength.

Though far advanced, there is a limit to the Soviet army's expansion. The number of youths the army can recruit is also restricted. Infinite armament is impossible.

Moreover, the far eastern army of the U. S. S. R. is far from home. It must develop extremely cold and barren lands that are sparsely populated. The Japanese garrison, on the other hand, is supported by the 30,000,000 Manchurians and their vast and fertile territory.

In the event of an arms race with the Soviets, there will be nothing to fear, therefore, if the Japanese maintain their strength and spirit at a certain level without regard for difficulties."

UNITED STATES HAS 2,400 PLANES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(UP)—The United States possesses approximately 2,400 modern fighting planes, divided 1,350 in the army and 1,050 in the navy, officials said tonight.

Congress appropriated $41,035,925 at the last session for purchase of military planes by the War Department during the fiscal year 1937.

Starting with 779 modern planes at the beginning of the fiscal year, the army has purchased more than 500 so far.

These purchases were made under the army's "five-year plan" for building up an air force of 2,320 planes by 1940, after the Baker board, a group of civilian and military experts headed by former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, set that figure as the minimum needed for defense.

GOVERNMENT GROUPS CUT LENDING ACTIVITY

Farm Credit Administration, also has a cut in its lending activity in 1936.

With applications for loans hitting a peak of 76,951 in October, 1935, these gradually fell to 16,021 in October, 1936, and to 7,764 last month. The agency now has an unexpended balance of $226,000,000.

PWA Funds Idle.

The Public Works Administration has unused about one-fourth of the $300,000,000 appropriated for loans and grants by the last congress and the Home Owners Loan Corporation, after advancing about $5,000,000,000 on home mortgages, ceased lending entirely last June 12.

The FHA does not lend directly, but has insured about $1,200,000,000 of private home mortgage and modernization loans. Unless extended by congress, the present government insurance will expire next July 1.

Often the spokesmen on administration credit policies, Jones cited recently that the RFC had been restricting activities this year and asserted that "whatever the President and congress may determine with respect to government lending, certainly curtailment is desirable."

Although counseling against "abruptly discontinuing all government lending," he added that he did not favor "businessmen in business one day longer than necessary."

DR. P. A. STEWART, 68, RETIRED DRUGGIST, DIES

Dr. Puzley A. Stewart, 68, of 529 Boulevard, N. E., retired Atlanta druggist, died last night at a private hospital of pistol wounds, said by police to have been self-inflicted. He was found wounded, at his home, last Wednesday. He had been in ill health about two years.

Dr. Stewart operated a drug store on Ponce de Leon avenue for 25 years, retiring four years ago because of ill health. A native of Wrightsville, Ga., he moved to Atlanta 40 years ago.

Surviving in his will two daughters, Mrs. W. T. Hickey, of New Orleans, and Miss Martha Wright, of Atlanta; a sister, Mrs. Lelia O. Daley, of Tenuille, Ga.; and a grandson and granddaughter.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Harry G. Poole.

LAWRENCEVILLE YOUTH SUCCUMBS TO BURNS

James Peoples, 12, of Lawrenceville, died last night of burns at a private hospital.

Hospital attaches said the child was brought to the hospital recently se-verly burned after he had thrown a wife over a high-tension line near his home. The child was playing with a spool of wire, tossing it into the air at the time and holding onto the end of the wire.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

METHODISTS ADJOURN 70TH ANNUAL SESSION

Street, Payne Memorial, St. James, St. Luke, St. Mark and Sylvan Hills. Pastors of other Atlanta churches remained unchanged.

Pastors Transferred.

Dr. Walt Holcomb transfers to Calvary church, to follow Rev. W. M. Barnett, who goes to Haygood Memorial to succeed Rev. B. F. Fim, who in turn goes to Elberton First church. Rev. J. H. Allison leaves Capitol View to go to Calhoun, and is followed by Rev. B. F. Mize, who comes from Augusta. Rev. J. R. Turner comes to Kirkwood, succeeding Rev. Claude Hendrick, who goes to Cartersville, there to succeed Rev. T. R. Kendall, who goes to Forsyth. Mr. Turner also becomes secretary of industrial work in the Atlanta district.

An interesting feature of the pastoral assignments for the Atlanta district is the adjoining pastorates of a father and son. Rev. W. S. Crawford continues as pastor at the Stewart Avenue church, while his son, Rev. Joseph Crawford, is named pastor at the Sylvan Hills church. Another son, Rev. F. Crawford, is located near by, at Lithia Springs.

Three who have been on the list of retired ministers during recent years were restored to active service at this conference. Rev. F. E. Jenkins was given appointment as pastor at Apalachee, in the Athens-Elberton district; Rev. W. J. Culppeper was appointed to the Forsyth circuit, in the Griffin district, and Rev. E. D. Hale was assigned to the Cuthbert and Yatesville charge, also in the Griffin district. All three of these men expressed sincere pleasure at being restored to health and active work in the ministry.

Ten Superannuates.

The conference saw set up a record for superannuations at one session. Ten men this year were voted the superannuate relation. They are: Rev. B. F. Read, Rev. B. F. Fraser, Rev. E. C. Atkins, Rev. E. D. Cragger, Rev. J. H. Farr, Rev. A. E. Silvey, Rev. J. T. Eakes, Rev. A. G. Hankle, Rev. H. L. Edmondson and Rev. W. D. Spence.

Dr. J. W. Johnson, for two years pastor at the Atlanta St. Mark church, was granted a year's leave of absence. Revs. E. B. Clapp, to Missouri; Rev. T. M. Dye, to Mississippi; and Rev. J. L. Dickerson to South Georgia, were announced as transferring out of the conference.

Conference activities for yesterday consisted of an old-time "love feast" just prior to the bishop's sermon at 11 o'clock. Ordination of deacons followed the morning session. The afternoon session was devoted entirely to a memorial session in honor of seven ministers who died during the year.

Bishop's Address.

Bishop Ashworth's discourse of the morning hour was a scholarly and classic discussion of the matter and importance of faith. He urged that faith is supreme and essential, not only for spiritual life, but also for progress and development in any line. He pointed out that Jesus Christ sought to save the world by faith, and that scripture writers emphasized its primacy.

The bishop insisted that the great need of today is a new faith in God, and in the actuality of spiritual things, and a declared faith to be the most reasonable thing of life. The faith needed, he said, is that which lays hold on the reality, personality and character of God. Spiritual things, he insisted, are as real as material things.

To have real faith in God, the bishop asserted, one must believe in what God is, and have hearing for God's call. Such faith, he assured, gives channel of God's call to holiness and to heroism, not selfishness or self-indulgence.

Young ministers ordained deacons yesterday morning are: Revs. Ewell Henry Blackburn, Paul Hammond Gunnells, Frank Edgar Morehead, Marvin Leslie Warwick.

Young men ordained elders last night are: Revs. Barrett Lee Barton, James Watts Gardner, Delma Lyman Hagood, Carl Adams McGrady, Samuel H. Hunsley, Jackson William Nichols, William Powell Rowe, Harry Lee Smith, Gaines Moses Spivey, Omar Lester Waters, and that of Rev. C. Norton was read by Rev. C. V. Weathers. Dr. A. M. Pierce read the memoir of Dr. T. R. Kendall, and that of Rev. C. B. McDaniel was read by J. F. Ford, of Seneca, S. C. Dr. E. F. Dempsey read the memoir of Mrs. Jones, and Dr. W. A. Tyson read that of Rev. J. O. Pettis.

Musical selections for the occasion were rendered by Dr. and Mrs. Luther Bridges and Mrs. A. B. Cunyus. Rev. C. V. Weathers, chairman of the committee on memoirs, presided at the memorial service.

conference showed that the north

Georgia section of Georgia Methodism has 803 congregations, with a total membership of 153,222, a net increase of 1,709 for the year. Additions on profession of faith were 4,521 for the year. A tremendous increase was reported in the matter of infant baptisms for the year, and baptism of others were numbered at 3,141. Sunday schools had decreased from 728 to 720 during the year, while Sunday school officers and teachers had suffered a decrease from 8,714 to 8,658, and total Sunday school enrollment had fallen from 97,627 to 95,547 during the year.

An increase of $482 was shown for presiding elders' salaries, and an increase of $15,534 was shown in payments on pastors' salaries. The grand total for the year of all moneys raised for all purposes and from all sources shows an increase from $1,184,252 for last year to $1,296,782 for this year.

DR. U. M'L. KIEFFER'S BROTHER PASSES AWAY

John B. Kieffer, 51, brother of Dr. U. M'L. Kieffer, Atlanta physician, died yesterday afternoon at his home in Savannah. He was for many years a resident of Atlanta.

For seven years Kieffer was director of the federal income tax bureau here and for five years was director of the state income tax bureau in Savannah.

He was past worshipful master of the Zurebel Lodge of Masons of Savannah and was a member of the Episcopal church.

Surviving are his widow; three children, John B. Kieffer Jr., Harriett and Marjorie Kieffer; one sister, Mrs. S. N. Cernor; and Dr. Kieffer, of Atlanta.

Funeral services and burial will be in Savannah.

FACT—OR JUST A ROMUR?

In the present rapprochement of Italy and Germany, exemplified by their joint recognition of the Fascist insurgent government of Spain, a gradual advance toward restoration of the Hapsburg dynasty in Austria with a Fascist dictator as the real ruler, and concerted antagonism directed toward the Russian Soviet, France finds herself in an isolated position that keeps her diplomats guessing whether rumors that float in from various points are based on facts or are simply figments of imagination.

One report that recently agitated official France was a statement, purporting to have come from inner circles in Berlin, via Geneva, to the effect that Hitler is contemplating the selection of an emperor, to again give Germany the semblance of having a constituted hereditary ruler (as obtains in Fascist Italy) and thus build up the idea with the common people that the nation is not operating under the iron hand of a ruthless dictator.

All Germany has a hereditary attachment for rule by princes, for whom subjects fought in the interminable succession of wars from the dawn of Teutonic history until the confederation of Germanic states effected by Bismarck in 1867-71. The devotion evidenced by the German people for Kaiser Wilhelm extended to all classes of the people, and it is conceivable that Hitler's dictatorship would be more secure if the populace could be made to believe that the government were headed by a hereditary ruler, even if administered by a premier-dictator.

The Hitler government rules entirely by means of a ruthlessness that engenders fear; but history demonstrates that ruthlessness and fear develop a spirit of desperation, and patient and long-suffering as is the character of the German people, they have rebelled, and they may do so again.

Another angle of speculation developed by the rumor is the indication of a coming open alliance between Italy and Germany. The average individual can see little more than one difference between Fascism and Nazism; the former gives lip service to a hereditary ruler, the latter does not, but that difference could be eliminated quickly, and then the rapprochement would be complete for such future contingencies as the changing fortunes of Europe might develop.

In the event the German throne is re-established, French speculation rules out the Wittbachs family as being unable to bring any support to the German side, the Hohenzollerns, on account of Catholic connections, and points to Prince George, of the Brunswick-Lüneburg family, which is connected with the Hanover dynasty that gave Great Britain its King George I and his Germanic successors—an influence that is not submerged at the present time.

Students of history, who are familiar with the chronicled happenings in Europe for the past two thousand years, are never surprised at latter day events, and if Hitler really does give the Germans an older kaiser they will only smile at the thought that he can never truthfully say that he is emperor by grace of the Almighty.

When the Germans, Russians, Italians and Portuguese are through with their fighting, they might thank Spain for the use of the hall.

Count Ciano asserts that Hitler and Il Duce see eye to eye. On their respective showings in the roto pages, we must give Benito the bulge.

WHEN NOT TO KISS

Captain Jack Malcom, in command of the police traffic bureau of Atlanta, is a firm believer in the good-bye morning kiss of husband and wife, but he insists that wives who drive their husbands down town every morning in the family auto adopt the plan of performing the osculatory rite before leaving home. Captain Malcom recently emphasized the extent to which—the farewell kisses delay traffic each day. Although the kiss may require a stopwatch to measure its duration, it causes all sorts of snarls in the flow of traffic. If affectionate husbands and wives will just remember this, they will materially assist in moving traffic through the downtown area during the early morning hours when we have one of our greatest congestions.

Many husbands insist on doing the driving into town; that necessitates his getting out of the car on the left side, a hazard for himself and a "hurry-up" driver who gets out of the traffic lane, holding up cars behind his while he gets in the clear, also delay while the wife shifts to the driver's place.

Then there are those last-minute conversations to be terminated between husband and wife, and "thank-yous" of free passengers some good-hearted motorist has carried to the business district—all of which occur in the middle of the street while waiting motorists honk their horns or cut around in the opposite traffic lane, interfering with cars going in that direction.

Last, but not least of the causes of evening traffic jams is the double parking of machines, waiting for someone to arrive from an office building or one of the mercantile establishments at closing time. It may be for only a minute, but a minute each for a multitude of cars between 5 and 6 in the evening is one of the reasons why traffic jams occur, and will continue until parked cars are banned during the rush hours of morning and evening.

NEW CALENDAR URGED

The Gregorian calendar, devised and promulgated by Pope Gregory XIII in A. D. 1582, still is used by the world, with corrections made by Great Britain and the American colonies in 1752, but its modification to conform to modern conditions will be sought by a proposed international congress.

Reformation of the calendar is being advocated by the Central Statistical Board, a federal government agency, of which Secretaries Henry Morgenthau Jr., Henry A. Wallace, Daniel C. Roper and Frances Perkins are directors.

The proposed plan is to divide the year into 13 months of 28 days each, the months to begin on Sunday and end on Saturday regularly, with all holidays falling on Monday.

At the end of every year there would be a "year day" or extra holiday to make the right number of days in a year, and in leap years a midyear extra holiday would be added.

For business purposes, and in order to be able to make monthly comparisons year after year, many large industrial corporations have adopted the 13-month calendar in the keeping of their records.

Other countries, including Great Britain, France, Belgium, Germany, Japan, Holland, Italy and several of the Balkan states, are aligning themselves with the movement, and the United States is supporting the proposal to call an international convention to consider the reform.

Those in favor of the change suggest that the new calendar begin on January 1, 1939, which falls on Sunday. Under the present calendar this does not occur again until 1950.

Fascists In Russia

Perhaps one of the most amazing news items encountered in many a year is the recent dispatch that a number of people have been arrested in the Soviet Union charged with making Fascist propaganda. The persons so charged—and if the charge is true—must be bolder than lions and nothing less than half-genius. It is bad enough to differ on one little point of doctrine with the ruling autocracy; whoever does, either gets the bullet or goes to the Sokolniki island, but to say one good word about Fascism in a country where it is the official doctrine is a crime.

Large numbers of Ukrainians are being arrested and taken to the Ukraine. When the evidence becomes available, however, it will probably be found that the arrested persons, most of them Germans, we are told, are in reality, concerned with Ukrainian nationalism.

Certain events have proved in the past that there are others besides Germans in the center of the Ukraine. In the Ukraine, large numbers of Ukrainians are being arrested and taken to the Ukraine. When the evidence becomes available, however, it will probably be found that the arrested persons, most of them Germans, we are told, are in reality, concerned with Ukrainian nationalism.

The same applies to Caucasian nationalists and Georgian nationalists, who, so it is said, have recently risen against Moscow.

The true story of this uprising will probably not be known so long as the papermen will be kept at a good distance while the repression goes on. That is the usual procedure over there. In 1922, when there was a big famine, we were kept cool in our heels in Moscow and told that everything was lovely. The Manchester Guardian referring to that famine recently remarked that it was the "greatest mystification" of history. Nobody in the outside world heard about it, says the British paper.

This is not quite true. Many of us knew definitely that there was a famine in the Ukraine, but we had no definite data to go by.

Cold Winter Ahead?

Long-range forecasts about a coming winter usually content themselves with the assurance that it is bound to be one of inordinate severity. Did you ever notice that no one ever seems to predict that a winter will be unusually mild? Even so, why did those prophets not have a word to say about the terrific fogs that are blowing all over Europe and the seven seas?

Ships are going down. Whole villages are thrown into mourning along the French, Flemish, Dutch, German and Scandinavian coasts. Half a dozen fine old forests are completely ruined. In our forest here the oaks are piled high with immense old oaks and oaks, cracked like mad wood in the south-western Ayr, and one of our chimneys came off in the middle of the night to the intense gratification of Hugo, who intimated that he had not thought Santa Claus could make such a racket.

Of all this the prophets remained silent. Do they deserve being believed when they predict frozen rivers, mountains of snow and the wolves driven into the towns by hunger?

Student Electors

The students of the universities of Aberdeen and Edinburgh are at present engaged in the campaign which precedes the election of a rector. The students' privilege of electing a rector to represent them was once common throughout Europe, but only survives in the four Scottish universities. The students are divided into "four nations" at those old schools.

The idea originated at the mother-university of Paris and Bologna. But even in the fourteenth century at Edinburgh observers spoke of those students as "confusion of voices amidst a scandalous din raised by shouting and laughter" by "obnoxious persons" who show no "deference whatever to the rector or procurator, nor to the doctors or seniors."

Well, that is exactly as a student election should go, according to my notions on the subject. With us the "rector magnificus" was elected by a person, but a learned professor appointed by the state, who in one particular case looked like a cross between Darwin and Jupiter. To-day he smoked an enormous clay pipe which a valet, known as the "custos" filled up for him as soon as it was burnt up.

It was our delight to say something stupid that he would get into an uproar. At which he smashed that endless clay pipe of his to small smithereens. There was one day when this correspondent set out in a motor car, and he was very much amused in having "Zeus" as we called him, batter no less than five pipes to pieces. I have a championship medal somewhere commemorating the event.

Talmudic Tales

By DAVID MORANTZ.

Number 477.

(Based upon the legends and philosophy found in the Talmud, which contains the oral laws and customs of the Jewish people, dating back as far as 3,000 years.)

A wealthy man once owned a pet squirrel, which he kept in a large cage in a window of his spacious home. In his cage was a revolving wheel and the little squirrel spent much of its time running in this wheel making it spin round and round.

In fact, during its waking hours, it hardly stopped long enough to eat, or drink. Then it would be on its way running, running, running all the time in the wheel.

One day the bird was accustomed to sit on a branch of a tree near the window and watch the squirrel, as it sped along in the swiftly revolving wheel.

"Tell me," it finally worked up courage to ask, "why are you running so fast all the time?"

The busy squirrel stopped running for a moment and, in a condescending manner, replied:

"Can you not see how busy I am? Do not bother me with your foolish questions."

And off he started again in the revolving wheel, making it spin faster than ever.

"Yes, I can see that you are very busy running," returned the bird, as it started to fly away, "but with all your business, you never seem to be getting any place."

Due to the extensive interest in Talmudic Tales, 128 of the legends and over 500 Pearls of Wisdom have been collected in an attractive book of 195 pages, handsomely bound in grained blue vellum cloth, with gold-stamped title. Autographed by author. Suitable for gifts or prizes. Price $1.50 post paid. Address Atlanta to "Talmudic Tales," care The Atlanta Constitution.

THE NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

BY PAUL MALLON.

THE BIG TROUBLE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Major defect in the business picture now is in building. The government has been spending a lot of money on it for three years, but has only succeeded in keeping it from complete breakdown. Private expenditures have not been stimulated to any extent comparable with the pre-depression era.

With general industrial production clicking along at 109 per cent of normal, building for November lags at about 55 per cent. It is the lowest of all the major trade barometers.

This is of tremendous importance because the bulk of unemployment now is in that industry. At least, in the absence of any real statistics concerning unemployment, most economists say it is in that industry. It means the current unemployment condition is not likely to be cured until the construction industry gets back into stride.

CAUSES

What has happened to the absent building boom is not a very deep mystery. For one thing, prices are high. That is, they are high in relation to wages and income. And there is not much chance that they will get any lower.

But that is not all. Other industries have not yet reached the point where plant expansions are necessary. Factory building for the last 10 months amounted to $161,000,000, which was good only by comparison with the $90,000,000 of the same period of 1935. Commercial building for the same 10 months' period amounted only to $203,000,000, and it was $140,000,000 for the same period last year. Office and store rents are not high enough and business prospects are not yet good enough to stimulate a general movement in commercial building.

Residential construction has done somewhat better. In the 10-month period it amounted to $668,000,000, as compared with $394,000,000 for the first 10 months of 1935.

CURES

But the demand for residential construction still exists, if the government surveys on the extent of the residential shortage are correct. Ample credit facilities exist. The present wave of wage increase and bonuses should, if continued, stimulate buying. Increases of the general price level during November tend to put the general price level more in conformity to building costs. All these factors suggest a continued steady improvement in the residential line.

Some slight sign of an increase in factory and commercial demand is discernible. The rayon industry, for one, has been running at capacity and is expected to increase its plant facilities. Increased earnings have also caused expectations of plant expansions in steel.

In the main, what is expected is a slow, smooth upward curve line, which may not reach pre-depression levels very soon.

It is a problem which the government could probably help more by encouraging a national belief in the certainty of business expansion, high wages and prices, than by the artificial methods which have been attempted.

PROGRESS

Recognized national authorities have circulated information that the upward movement of building stopped in July and has not recovered since. This is not correct. The amount of contracts awarded each month since spring follows, in millions of dollars:

April, 130. May, 122. August, 122. September, 119. October, 125. June, 116. July, 141.

Every building material line was up from September to October. Employment in the industry was up 2 1-2 per cent; pay rolls 5 per cent.

BUSINESS BALANCE

The extent to which building has lagged may be gauged properly from the following government chart of major business activities, which, the leading national economist has said, "gives us our best information about business conditions." All figures are based on 1923-25 as 100, except prices, which are based on 1926. The figures are adjusted for seasonal variations, so each figure represents roughly the percentage of normal existing at the times designated.

CHART—

YEAR	Industrial Production	Factory Employment	Pay Rols	Pr. Load.	Dept. Store	Bldg. Const.	Wholesale Price
1929 Aver.	119	104.8	109.1	105	111	117	95.3
1932 Aver.	64	64.2	45.3	56	69	28	64.8
1935 Aver.	90	82.1	70.2	63	79	37	80.0
1936 Aver.	108	88.9	81.1	70	86	62	81.6
Sept.	109	88.9	81.1	72	88	59	81.6
Oct.	109	90.4	86.5	73	90	58	81.5
(Est.) Nov.	109	90.0	87.0	74	93	55	82.1

NOTES Autos are figuring on a 10 per cent increase in sales next year. Some noted economists cannot see how it will develop, although there was great enthusiasm manifest at the shows.

A 10 per cent improvement in rail earnings next year is being more confidently predicted.

October production of autos was less than a year ago, but only because they got a slow start, due to model changes.

Now it's all settled, We can go back to work, Seeking our riches or fame; Life can't be peaceful, No longer fears lurk, It's over—the Tech-Georgia game.

The Parade. Those of you who didn't drive to Athens on Saturday morning can take comfort in the thought there wouldn't have been room for you all, anyway. On the highway, I mean.

Coming to perform the daily stint Saturday morning, from home to catch a street car in Decatur, I walk half a mile up the Lawrenceville and Athens highway. And it was a constant parade of automobiles, filled with the happy football crowds, speeding along the concrete with bumpers as close, or closer, than safety requires.

There were throngs of hitch-hikers, especially beyond the Decatur city limits. There is an uneasy fear, when trying to thumb a ride within Decatur, the police may descend and give you a ride to the local housewife. For there are warning signs around, promising a $10 fine for soliciting rides.

Then there was a really attractive girl among the thumbs. Saw her get her ride, in a comfortable looking car with a man and woman. More and more the girls are invading masculine territory. It is not at all infrequent to see girl hitch-hikers, nowadays.

Perhaps it is the influence of the screen. You remember Claudette Colbert and Clark Gable in that picture of a year or two ago.

Your Babies

Coming Again. These five young'uns who are the pride and joy of all the world, the Dionnes, are going to be seen next week in the next chapter of their life story on the silver screen. The second feature length Dionne film will be, it is understood, at the Fox.

Jeane Hersholt will again be Dr. Deane and the fine starlets will again be themselves. Undoubtedly everybody will be there to see 'em.

Regardless of adoption by the Imperial British government, in spite of the natural rights of their parents, Papa and Mama Dionne, these quins are in a very real sense the children of the world.

For, when we become intensely interested in any person or any thing; when we follow its, her or his life, we take in every advance and worry over every setback, we adopt the person or thing as part of our own being. And in this case the loving interest is multiplied by five.

Just as the sun and the sky and the flowers and the trees and the moon and the stars and all the lovely things of nature, the air and the great spaces, belong to all of us, so, in a real degree, the Dionne quins belong to all of us. By our interest and affection, even though long-distance, we have made it so.

Therefore, next week, it will be like seeing a later picture of our own babies, like watching for the growth and development we expect and take pride in, to see the newest Dionne production.

Postman's Holiday. She was telling me what a good time she had on Thanksgiving. She is the little girl who waits on me in the place where I eat my daily lunch. I had lots of turkey, she explained, "but I didn't have to cook. But really I did. Cause, you see, I cooked all morning at home. But it was grand. Wottle you have today?"

Did He Run After Her? It was in the lobby of the Erlanger theater as we were going in Friday night to see the "Scandalia."

There was one of those fellows with penetrating voice offering "books on the show," with pictures of the entire cast, and a production program, for a quarter each.

There was a girl, beautiful and expensively attired in a magnificent coat, with her escort, a youth in whom I had noticed a certain interest in fully realize what was going on around her.

And the peddler of books held one out toward her, as she passed, and she accepted it and walked on. And her escort refused to pay the quarter. While he argued the girl went on, down the stairs.

Heater presenting in clear and booklet hawkers sprint down the stairs after her and seize his property and rush back to resume his sales patter.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today. From The Constitution of Thursday, November 30, 1911:

"Blind tiger business is dull—that is, the police end of it, and the number of cases has been reduced two-thirds. The police are getting the bottom of the whisky traffic than ever before."

And Fifty Years Ago. From The Constitution of Tuesday, November 30, 1886:

"In Fort Valley, Mrs. General Anderson, a week or so since, fell and broke her arm. She is now nearly 80 and a day or two ago the general fell and broke one or two of his fingers on his wounded hand, and on Wednesday his son, Lofton, fell and broke his arm."

Tarzan's Appeal

To His Public. Nov. 29.—A touching document is Johnny Weismuller's appeal to his public to believe that he struck a man foul in the brawl at the Stork Club, but it assumes that an actor, if we are to consider him such, carries a public responsibility for his private conduct. This would put Mr. Weismuller in the position of any senator, judge or local superintendent of sewers and that would be unwise from the standpoint of both art and politics.

Weismuller's part it should be held that his art and his unofficial acts are still his business, and he has the right to stay up late, drink, gamble and neglect his home on his own time if he should care to. It is only when he swings from limb to limb on a property, or when he utters a word of dramatic expression and that, as one who has studied baboonery at the wrestling matches, I challenge his version of the language of the missing link. Still, his abdomen and his characteristic yell are his own art and the customers accept it that settles that.

I might add that, according to my taste, the male abdomen, even in perfection, is not the highest mode of dramatic expression and that, as one who has studied baboonery at the wrestling matches, I challenge his version of the language of the missing link. Still, his abdomen and his characteristic yell are his own art and the customers accept it that settles that.

Resemblance

But if it be that, the strength of these gifts Mr. Weismuller acquires the status of a public leader that can hardly be regarded as a disadvantage. He is a man who has sometimes elected to high office men who were more authentic baboons without acting than Mr. Weismuller.

Many a city council and legislature has borne a striking resemblance to the monkey house but the people in their inscrutable wisdom chose these men to govern their affairs for better or worse. There is no arguing with the election returns. Yet, the struggle to improve is always going on and the similar character of the public affairs is gradually fading. We seem to be going along rather well, except, perhaps, in California and Chicago, where the politicians cling to the familiar and stubbornly beloved type when Weismuller revealed that a man studiously imitates the ape-man is conscious of a personal following among the people.

I have the feeling that if people must follow an actor as personal devotees they might better select for their idol one who imitates the best type of man rather than one that swings on a grapevine at the zoo. It conveys an uncomfortable suggestion that when Weismuller revealed that a man studiously imitates the ape-man is conscious of a personal following among the people.

But I wish Mr. Weismuller, had I a socked a man foul in the night club because, the art of the drawer exists largely in the ability of the Capital Views F. D. R. Talk at Rio As Invitation for British Support

Mention of Canada in Brazil Address Leads Observers To Decide England's Adherence Sought; Governor General of Canada To Visit President This Year.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—President Roosevelt's appeal for world peace in his address before the Brazilian congress in Rio de Janeiro Friday, was interpreted here as the chief executive's first major move to carry out what he conceives to be a mandate from the United States electorate to follow in the footsteps of Woodrow Wilson and advocate universal peace among all nations.

Mr. Roosevelt's reference to Canada as a member of the peace-loving families of American countries led observers of international relations in Washington to suggest that his ultimate goal is to provide a wide opening for the British empire to join in the peace preservation plans the President will advance at the coming Buenos Aires conference. These observers feel that the probable program to be followed at Buenos Aires will include a plan for the formation into a secure group of all neutral American nations, with Canada acquiescing thereby giving the British empire an opening for similar action.

It is expected that Lord Tweedsmuir, governor-general of Canada, will repay President Roosevelt's call on him at Quebec early last fall some time this year and enter into conversations looking to mutual peace action by the two major governments of the North American continent. Also invited to call on President Roosevelt at their own convenience are President Getulio Vargas, of Brazil, and President Augustin P. Justo, of the Argentine Republic.

Pan-American Spirit.
Shortly after his arrival at Rio de Janeiro, Mr. Roosevelt said he did not have in contemplation an American League of Nations, yet he frankly admitted that the United States was becoming increasingly conscious of a Pan-American spirit. While he does not propose an American league it is undoubtedly his purpose to forge a strong weapon of peace that will hold out world-wide economic advantages to non-aggressor nations in the peace time as well as during national conflicts. This would appear to be a safe deduction from President Roosevelt's talk before the Brazilian congress, for he then said:

"The people of each and every one of the American republics and I am confident, the people of the dominions of Canada, as well, wish to lead their own lives free from desire for conquest and free from fear of conquest; free at the same time to expand their cultural and intellectual relationships and to take counsel together to encourage the peaceful program of modern civilization."

The President may very well have in view a plan which would make it as easy as possible for the British plus, perhaps, all nations of the sterling bloc, to align themselves informally with the neutral nations of the western hemisphere.

Personal Diplomacy.
Certainly, the President, by going to South America, by making his Rio de Janeiro peace talk and by inviting heads of neighboring American nations to visit him in Washington, is making full use of "personal diplomacy."

The national administration undoubtedly is well aware, first, of the seriousness of the European situation with its threat of war; secondly, of the economic factors that lead other nations into bloody grips with one another, even in fights they do not start or do not want; and thirdly, the all-but universal demand for peace and neutrality within the borders of the United States.

It is not beyond reason to predict the possibility of the sterling nations, plus the countries of North and South America keeping free from another European conflict by reason of their economic self-sufficiency.

Prime Minister MacKenzie King, of Canada, according to press reports, publicly applauded President Roosevelt's Rio address and there has been evidence in England of sentiment favorable to some sort of informal peace alliance with America.

From the entire group of taxes, revenue to the states in 1935 totaled $1,654,800,000, of which $1,049,500,000 came from the six levies duplicating those of the federal government. Treasury records showed federal revenues from the six taxes were $2,271,400,000 in 1935.

$589,200,000 From Gas.
Of the total state receipts from the eight taxes last year, $589,200,000 came from gasoline, $520,500,000 from motor vehicle registrations and license fees, $284,400,000 from general sales and $100,400,000 from liquor.

In 1930, gasoline provided $470,000,000 and motor vehicle registrations, $355,700,000, but general sales and liquor were relatively unimportant at $1,200,000 and $200,000, respectively.

The tax load taken up by general sales and liquor in 1935, it was shown, offset declines in income, motor vehicle and estate and inheritance levies.

Aggregate revenues from all state income taxes were listed at $164,700,000 last year, a decline of $75,300,000 under 1930; revenues from motor vehicle registrations at $120,500,000, a drop of $33,200,000, and receipts from estate and inheritance levies at $100,800,000, a drop of $82,600,000.

This was a total decline of $193,300,000, which was more than compensated for by an aggregate $508,800,000 increase in general sales, gasoline and liquor tax revenues. In addition, the states realized a $16,300,000 gain from tobacco levies.

All states were reported collecting gasoline and motor registration taxes both in 1930 and 1935, the number with general sales levies increased from two in 1930 to 25 last year, those with liquor taxes from three to 47, those with individual income levies from 15 to 28, and those with corporation income taxes from 16 to 28.

Tobacco Levies Spread.
The number of states with tobacco taxes increased from 16 in 1930 to 23 in 1935, and those with estate and inheritance taxes from 45 to 47.

Discussing "concentration of collections" from the various levies, the report said about half the estate and inheritance revenues were received by New York and Pennsylvania between 1930 and 1935, that four-fifths of individual income taxes were collected in Massachusetts, New York and Wisconsin and that three-fourths of sales levy income was accounted for by California, Illinois, Michigan, New York and Ohio.

Although saying that figures for 1936 are not complete, the survey added preliminary data indicated substantial upturns in individual and corporate income, gasoline, liquor, general sales and tobacco taxes.

A congressional committee has been conducting a study of overlapping taxation for some time, but thus far has not made public its findings.

CONSCIENCE FORCES

'CAIN' TO SURRENDER

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Gray-haired Charles Kohr, 44, made "peace with his conscience" tonight by telling a friendly police sergeant he had killed his young brother in Belleville, Ill. 35 years ago and thrown the body into a cistern.

Some support of Kohr's strange story of a fratricide concealed at the expense of mental torment for more than three decades came from old files at Belleville.

Records showed a verdict of "accidental drowning" entered February 16, 1902, to explain the death of 15-year-old Henry J. Kohr—as the family was known then.

Police Chief Thomas H. Lonie said at Belleville he would apply tomorrow for a murder warrant for Kohr, whose complaint tonight as he fretted in a cell was that "the mark of Cain is upon me."

CLOUDY AND WARMER

FORECAST FOR TODAY

Cloudy skies of last night will be followed by occasional showers and warmer temperatures in Atlanta today, the Candler Field weather bureau station reported last night.

Today's forecast calls for temperatures ranging from 42 to 65 degrees, as compared with a range of 36 to 60 degrees yesterday.

Showers were moving slowly across Mississippi and Louisiana yesterday, and are due to strike Atlanta today, the weatherman said. No cold wave is in sight, as warm weather is following the rain, he announced.

STAR'S FIANCE MEETS HER 6 'REQUIREMENTS'

Ponselle Has Waited Ten Years for Suitor To Fill Matrimonial Bill.

By BALTIMORE, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Rosa Ponselle, vivid star of Grand Opera, waited 10 years for her Prince Charming to come along.

He appeared barely a year ago—tall, modest, handsome and romantic. She met him, almost by chance, at the theater—Carle A. Jackson, young Baltimore businessman—and now it will soon be wedding bells for the two.

The engagement of the beautiful singer of the Metropolitan Opera Company and the son of Mayor Howard W. Jackson was announced last night.

No Surprise.
It was no surprise, for the couple have been seen often together at the races and other events. Miss Ponselle always wearing orchids, the gift of her suitor.

It has been a long time—10 years—since Miss Ponselle told of her ideal for a husband in an interview on "Why have you not married?" Yet friends say the quiet, serious-minded young insurance man she is to wed meets the six requirements she gave to a tee:

1. He must be a man of complete understanding and tolerance.

2. He must be trusting.

3. He must not be of my profession, but must be a businessman with the understanding and the bigness to put up with the capriciousness of a professional woman's husband.

4. He must be a man I can look up to and respect.

5. He must be romantic and very sentimental.

6. He must be a man who would not marry a woman with a substantial income and expect her to support him.

Met by Chance.
They met, so the story goes, at the last Baltimore opera season. Miss Ponselle was backstage and wanted to get "a breath of air." As Frederick R. Huber, theater manager, led her past behind the boxes, Jackson was standing in the corridor.

"There is the mayor's son," said Huber. "Would you like to meet him?"

"I certainly would," she replied—and there the romance began.

No wedding date has been set. Miss Ponselle explained the Metropolitan Opera season opening in New York January 4 precluded any definite wedding plans.

Distribution of Security Forms Brings Avalanche of Questions

Distribution to employers and employees of forms from social security headquarters, has brought in an avalanche of questions from Constitution readers, on their personal problems with regard to this federal act.

If there is anything that is not clear to you, as employer or employee, phone, mail or bring your problem to the S. S. A. Question and Answer Department of The Atlanta Constitution. It will be sent immediately to our Washington Information Bureau, and a correct ruling will be obtained and published in The Constitution promptly, identified by your own initials.

Some of the queries published here, with may apply to your own case.

Q. Would a man who has been working continuously on one job for 25 years (a job eligible under the social security act), reaching age of 65 in 1940, be allowed to continue working until 1942, when the monthly payments start? P. P. A.

A. If, between December 31, 1936, and an employee's 65th birthday, he has worked in an included employment, but has not met the requirements for monthly old-age retirement benefits, either because the total amount of wages is not as much as $2,000, or because he has not been employed at some time during five different calendar years after December 31, 1936, he will receive a lump sum payment equal to 3 1/2 per cent of his total wages for the time worked. This will be paid when the employee reaches the age of 65. The lump sum payment to those who meet some, but not all, minimum requirements for benefits is not forfeited by continuing regular work in an included employment after age 65. Such person cannot qualify for monthly benefits even if he works until 1942.

Q. Will a British subject, living and working in America, be eligible for social security insurance? N. R.

A. Citizenship is not a requisite for eligibility for monthly old-age retirement benefits under the act.

Q. A man owns a small business with three or four steady employees. His hours are much longer than theirs and his income less, though he pays three or four times as much social security insurance as they. He becomes 65 years of age, and is unable to furnish jobs for himself or his employees. Does he receive any social security benefit? R. H. B.

A. Internal revenue regulations for the social security act provides: "Every person is an employer who employs one or more individuals in employment within the United States, of services not specifically excepted." Employers are not eligible for benefits under the social security act.

Q. Am 60 years old, a locomotive engineer by trade and a member of the B. of L. E. Have been on strike since 1921. Benefits paid by B. of L. E. not sufficient to support my 71-year-old wife, semi-invalid, and myself. No one will employ a man 69 years old. Is there any provision in the social security act that will cover my case? H. L. C.

A. Yes. If one should pay the tax while working from 30 to 35 years of age, how much pension would she get and when? L. C. P.

A. The pensions begin at 65. The amount would depend on the wages over those five years, but only up to $3,000 a year from one employer is credited to the wage account. If you got $3,000 a year, the account would show $15,000. The pension would be one-half of 1 per cent of the first $3,000 and one-twelfth of 1 per cent of the next $12,000 each month, or $25.

BOREAH WILL BEGIN SIXTH SENATE TERM

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Senate Dean William E. Boreah, Republican, Idaho, sped toward Washington tonight to begin at 71 his sixth term.

"I've had a pleasant but strenuous summer," he commented. He appeared fully recovered from a chest cold which confined him recently.

He will go via Chicago and is due in Washington December 2.

INQUEST IS SET TODAY IN SHOOTING-SUICIDE

An inquest into the death of Tabor T. Connor, 50, north Fulton county farmer, who shot and killed himself Saturday at his wife's farm near Newton, in old Milton county, after he had first wounded his wife, will be held at 9:30 o'clock this morning at the chapel of Harry G. Poole.

Mrs. Connor, who was shot four times, once through the abdomen and the cheek and both hands, was reported improved at Grady hospital last night. Doctors say her wounds are not serious.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Fierce hand-to-hand fighting between union pickets and police at the strike-closed Celanese plant caused Governor Harry W. Nice to "hurry here today to seek an armistice."

More than a score have been injured in repeated outbreaks at the big artificial silk factory where a walk-out November 12 involved 9,000 workers in a dispute over wages and union recognition.

Some of the injured had battered heads, others stab wounds or bruises and burns from stones and flaming torches hurled in melees between as many as 75 officers and guards and 250 strikers.

"This is no way for civilized people to act," Governor Nice said as he left Annapolis for an "armistice" conference between the strikers and plant officials.

For Digestion's Sake ... Smoke Camels

Good digestion helps bring a sense of well-being and contentment

THE delightful effect of smoking Camels with your meals and afterwards has been proved again and again in the great laboratory of human experience. Explorers, champion athletes, people in hazardous outdoor work, as well as millions of men and women in homes and offices, find that Camels get digestion off to a good start and make the perfect ending to a meal. When you enjoy Camels, you are rewarded with an increased flow of digestive fluids—alkaline digestive fluids—so important to good digestion. And you can enjoy Camels as often as you like. Camels don't get on your nerves.

Deep in the jungle fastness of Central America amid the ruins of a lost city...

Lawrence T. K. Griswold (right) has headed expeditions to Tibet, Komodo, the Amazon, and the lost cities of the ancient Mayas. He lists Camels as one of the necessities on the trail. "Getting good water and food is a daily problem," says Griswold. "At best, eating in the jungle is no picnic. I've found that smoking Camels—no matter where, what, or when I eat—is an aid to my digestion. Camels ease tension and give me a 'lift' in energy when I need it most. After a day of tough going, with nerves alert for hidden peril, I look forward to the sense of ease Camels bring me. Camels never get on my nerves."

PROBERS' CRITICISM OF FIREMEN DROPPED

the bodies of two persons who died on the sixth floor of the building in the fire November 19.

Alderman Farris Mitchell offered a resolution worded thus: "After listening closely to all the testimony brought out in this investigation, we fail to see any laxity, cowardice or lack of direction on the part of the officers and men fighting the fire."

Only Mitchell and Councilman John T. Marler voted "aye" on this, but all firemen explained the matter will be taken up at the next meeting again. None of the firemen saw evidence of cowardice on the part of the firemen, they declared.

Needed Equipment.
Councilman Howard McCutcheon said a report on needed fire-fighting equipment will be made to the board Wednesday. He requested the aid of John W. Greene, fire protection engineer, in determining Atlanta's needs. Greene wrote the board he was connected with an equipment company and, therefore, would rather not serve on the committee, since his company will likely offer bids.

Councilman W. M. Sutton, chairman of the board, was directed to write Greene a letter asking him to serve, nevertheless, and that no prejudice would be felt in any way. McCutcheon and Fire Chief O. J. Parker declared Greene is an expert in such matters.

Passage Deleted.
Passages in Haire's report which were stricken by vote of the board follow: "The board offers the following criticism of the conduct of the fire department on this particular occasion: That the departments be charged with indecision in the matter of rescuing occupants of the building and lack of direction thereafter. The department is charged with neglect of properly testing the life nets. Although they were not used, testimony brought out the fact that no record of testing has been made during the past year. It was further brought out the nets were more than five years old."

"That the department is charged with crudeness in lowering the bodies of the victims, and

"That the bureau of fire inspection is charged with laxity in inspections. Testimony brought out the fact that the six-foot stairway used for exits was reported to be in good condition to the first floors. Regardless of existing ordinances, it is the opinion of the board that this matter should be referred to proper authorities. Testimony further brought out that 15 gallons of inflammable liquid was stored in the refinishing room of this building in non-conforming containers, contrary to the law."

The firemen, while voting on the paragraph regarding fire inspection, did recommend that the fire inspectors exert every effort to rigidly inspect buildings and to require proper marking of exits and passage ways to safeguard the lives of citizens."

Haire's Motion Adopted.
The committee report on the probe, as adopted yesterday, follows:

"Honorable Mayor and General Council:
"At the request of the honorable mayor pro tem, we, the board of firemen, have conducted an exhaustive inquiry regarding the operations of the fire department during the recent tragedy in the Cable Piano Company building, 84 Broad street, N. W., on November 19, 1936, and the facts are summarized as follows:

"The announcement of the hearing to be held was widely publicized in the three Atlanta newspapers and citizens were invited to present facts. The inquiry was held in public in the city council chamber on the nights of November 23 and 24, and was largely attended. Approximately 60 people, including citizens and firemen, were called to the witness stand."

"We deeply deplore the horrible tragedy which snuffed out the lives of three of our citizens. However, the investigation disclosed that a number of human elements entered into the occasion contributing to the chaos and hysteria prevalent at the conflagration."

Handicaps to Firemen.
"Testimony presented proved that firemen were seriously handicapped by the efforts of the volunteers, gun wires and power lines, parked automobiles, hysterical people, and thousands of people surging in to the scene of activity. We have no criticism for the firemen's courage, nor do we doubt the sincerity of purpose of those who graciously sought to assist the firemen."

"The committee, during its investigation and deliberations, has endeavored to analyze and study the preponderance of testimony, which in so many instances was in variance, making it rather difficult to arrive at the facts."

"Automatic machine records disclose the first alarm was received at 12:32 p. m. Immediately upon the arrival from headquarters, Assistant Chief W. B. Fanning phoned a call for help which was recorded at 12:34 p. m., and subsequently other help calls were made. In all 17 pieces of equipment, manned by 80 men, were called to the scene of the fire, and approximately 20 men off duty engaged in firefighting."

Actions of Fire Fighters.
"Criticism has been directed to the action of the company in command of the aerial truck from station No. 8, Captain H. G. Pierce. However, the equipment east on Luckie street and turned into Forsyth street, in the rear of the Cable Piano Company building, which apparently was at that time, and has been proved, the base of the fire, Captain Pierce went immediately to the roof adjoining the Cable building and directed the rescue of five people trapped at this location. Subsequently, he directed Lieutenant C. S. Rhodes to lead his men into the Cable building with hose lines to extinguish the blaze. Immediately thereafter, he proceeded with his aerial

'Wally' Cooked Her Way to Fame And Heart of King Edward VIII

The grass widow years of Wally Simpson—those interesting, beautiful, her first divorce and her second marriage—are described in this eighth of a series of articles on the life of the favorite companion of King Edward VIII.

By GERALD DUNCAN.

Prohibition put Wally Simpson in the butler's pantry. It gave her a way all her own with a pinch of mustard and a dash of Worcestershire sauce. She bloomed as a hostess.

It was during those Volstead days of bottle parties when the cocktail hour was transferred from the hot to the very few, if any, of her drooleries. Gossip around Baltimore has it that Wally first charmed Edward by the magic of her voice when he visited the United States Naval Academy, as Prince of Wales. That was at about the time of her divorce from Lieutenant Spencer.

Edward, who lives at Timonium, Md., was adjutant general of Maryland then. The story goes that he may have taken her to the academy to join in the welcome for the royal visitor. General Warfield himself can't remember whether he did. But in any event, Wally was well known to the commandant of the naval academy and had entrée to the select circle. It is quite possible that she went there with friends to absorb the military atmosphere.

General Warfield is authority for this much, however. Edward was the luncheon guest of the commandant one day when Wally was present. The daughter was entertaining some girl friends. The two functions were in the same mansion, of course, although the rooms were widely separated.

It was the girls' idea that they could dance without disturbing the formal affair honoring the distinguished visitor. So they put a record on the phonograph, Edward, having lunch, heard the seductive melody and wandered away from the gold-braided dignitaries in the direction of the music.

Long before Wally Simpson came into his life, Edward was renowned as a dancer. On that day (and General Warfield is the source of this information) he saw Wally O. L. from the stuffy atmosphere of the conventional reception. He joined the girls at a dance.

The general gives it as his word that Edward danced with every girl in the party. Wally, of course, was the girl of the hour. He danced with her for the first time. It may have been then—more than a dozen years ago—that he became enamored of the dark-haired girl with the voice like a later. The only question is: Was Wally there?

The life story of Wally Simpson will be continued in the article to appear soon in The Constitution.

lude to death. When the journey ended, things really start happening. The girl (Gloria Stuart) with whom the G-man (Brian Donlevy) has fallen in love is abducted by Public Enemy Douglas Fowley.

Isabel Jewell gives a good performance in several dramatic sequences, which are lightened by interspersions of Stepin Fetchitisms.

The stage really takes a big step in this week's bill, with the presentation of the "Paramount Club Revue," straight from Chicago. Our pick of the funsters is Ted and Art Miller, a comedy team that brings forth some real laughs and wins no small amount of applause. The performers also are turned in by the Four Cards, dance artists; Healey and Mack, a skilled hand-balancing team; Little Betty, the world's smallest entertainer; and Helen Dove, accomplished specialty dancer.

Music—lots of all kinds—is supplied by Cornelius and Enrico Leide and the Capitols.

"36 Hours to Kill" and the Paramount Club presentation, along with short screen subjects, complete a thoroughly enjoyable bill. —C. F. C.

Argentine Naval Escort.
The presidential party fell in with its Argentine naval escort at 5 p. m. Sunday off Maldonado, Uruguay, about 100 miles east of Montevideo.

In Buenos Aires thousands of flags of all descriptions were unfurled through the central part of the city. North American, British, Italian and Latin-American banners made colorful contrast with the sky-blue and white Argentine colors in the streets.

Tomorrow has been declared a holiday.

President Roosevelt rode through a stormy night through Golfo De Santa Catharina, famed as the roughest spot on the sea, voyage from the United States, and approached the Rio Plata today.

After contacting the Argentine fleet of two battleships, a cruiser and four destroyers, the Indianapolis will turn up the Plata estuary and make the trip up the river by daylight tomorrow.

Festive Welcome.
As the presidential party approaches the Argentine city, there will be a salute by the Argentine river flotilla and hundreds of craft of the Argentine Yacht Club.

The weather forecast was for bright sun and light breeze, but heavy clouds would cheer Mr. Roosevelt along the route from the dock to the United States embassy, where the President will stay until his departure Wednesday, after addressing the conference opening Tuesday.

Valdemore on the road to Aranjuez a few miles south of Madrid.

Government airplanes bombed several points along the Bay of Biscay, where Fascist are concentrated, the war office declared.

The British embassy was considering evacuating as many as possible of 350 British subjects still in Madrid, but it was announced the embassy staff would remain.

ALICANTE BOMBED BY INSURGENT PLANES
VALENCIA, Nov. 29.—(UP)—Two rebel bombers, escorted by four pursuit planes, bombed Alicante early today, killing two persons and wounding 24.

Huge gasoline stores of the Loyalist armies were set fire and firemen from Murcia and other cities had to be called.

One report said bombs were aimed at a Russian steamer discharging foodstuffs for the Loyalists.

The government announced that 200 bombs were dropped and did extensive damage.

President Manner Azana arrived here Saturday and conferred with Premier Francisco Largo Caballero. They heard a report from Foreign Minister Alvarez Del Vayo on the effects of the Spanish civil war abroad.

Later the cabinet discussed in detail the progress of the war on the various fronts.

Valencia had its first "air raid" last night. Thousands hurried to cellars and other places of refuge when it was announced that enemy planes had dropped two bombs of "foreign appearance" and that seven other enemy warships were 30 miles off the coast.

All street lights were extinguished within 30 seconds and crowds rushed to places of safety. All work in utilities, including the telegraph companies ceased for two hours.

There were no official explanations, but it was believed that the warning had been given to accustom the population to air raids in case the rebels do invade the city. No planes appeared.

The cabinet decreed tonight that the Spanish government would not recognize money circulated by the rebels.

Bert Acosta, American air ace, who arrived here yesterday, explained that he had gone to Paris to enter the New York to Paris air race and came here "to study Spanish airplane construction."

"I am for the Loyalists," he said, "because I feel that they are fighting toward an end more satisfactory to everybody."

The correspondent found Acosta at a barber shop, where he was protesting unavailingly against the determination of a barber to drench him with scotch.

In the next chair was another American flyer, Frederick Lord, to whom Acosta said laughingly:

"I guess I'll smell like a Parisian bell when this is over."

Asked if he had volunteered to fight for the Loyalists, Acosta said:

"Where did you hear that? It's unfeasible charge."

CHARGES OF SPAIN WILL BE STUDIED
GENEVA, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Secretary J. A. C. Avenol today convoked the League of Nations council to discuss and three machine guns were captured.

In the Talavera sector, the government declared the militia continued its advance with heavy artillery bombardment of the city proper.

Air Field Damaged.
The insurgent air field at Talavera was reported damaged heavily.

Fascist efforts to cut into Guadalajara province northeast of Madrid were repulsed and the government claimed capture of five villages there, including Santolís, Semillas, Robre d'Arcas, Fraguas and Cabanas.

The movement was regarded as particularly important now because it was believed the insurgents were trying to encircle Madrid and submit it to long siege.

A militia detachment claimed 30 Fascist dead in an encounter near the Spanish Socialist government's protest on Italian and German recognition of the insurgent general Francisco Franco.

Avenol sent messages to 15 members of the League council asking them whether they preferred to meet December 7 or December 14 and requested replies by December 1 so a definite date could be set for the meeting.

The development followed a series of behind-the-scenes maneuvers of European diplomats who have boycotted the Spanish-requested convocation as liable to bring new complications in the already delicate European situation.

The decision was made after neutral Spanish in Geneva allied neither with the government of Premier Largo Caballero or with Franco declared that the war in Spain was no longer a civil strife but a "world war of political philosophy which temporarily is being fought out on Spanish soil."

Geneva diplomats were anxious over what attitude Italy would take in her reply to Avenol's message because although she is still a permanent member of the council she has boycotted all activities of the League of Nations in pursuance of Premier Mussolini's assertion he would recognize the league only after it recognized Italy's annexation of Ethiopia.

Italy, like Germany, was accused by the Valencia regime of furnishing military aid and planning to furnish naval assistance to Franco.

MISS LYNCH DIES
Atlanta Woman Was Member of Prominent Family.

Miss Mary Lynch, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lynch, widely known Atlanta, and an aunt of Raymond Bloomfield, secretary of Sam R. Greenberg & Co., died yesterday at the residence of a sister, Mrs. J. N. Wallace, 601 Durant place.

She was a member of the Sacred Heart church and had been a resident of Atlanta all her life. She was 67.

Other survivors include three other sisters, Mrs. Pat Bloomfield, Mrs. H. C. Butler, Savannah, and Miss Neil Lynch.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow at a time to be announced and burial will be in Oakland cemetery with Sam R. Greenberg in charge.

TRAWLER IS STRANDED
NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Trawler Captain, carrying a crew of 18, stranded half a mile north of Rich inlet, about 35 miles north of Cape Fear on the North Carolina coast, this afternoon, according to advices received at coast guard headquarters here from the Cutter Modoc.

RICH'S

Thoughts of Friends Compensate For Atlantan's Recent Illness

By Sally Forth.

D. B. THORNWELL JACOBS has a splendid philosophy of life, as you can judge by his engaging and ever-present smile. He finds that everything has its compensation, even to the appendix operation which he underwent recently.

The compensation in this instance came from the sympathetic recognition by countless friends of the suffering and the tedium of convalescence of Oglethorpe's popular president. His room at St. Joseph's was literally filled to the eaves with flowers, and doubtless postmen and telegraph messengers considered themselves overworked with delivering the flood of mail and telegrams which came from far and near.

Topping the long list of friendly messages expressing concern over his recovery was a letter to Dr. Jacobs from President Franklin D. Roosevelt. This was followed by letters and telegrams from such eminent personages as William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Attorney General Homer Cummings; Senator Royal S. Copeland; Harlow Shapley, head of the astronomical observatory at Harvard University; Wilfred J. Funk, editor of Literary Digest; Helen Rogers Reid, of the New York Herald Tribune; Orson D. Munn, president, Scientific American; Mrs. Cora Smith Gould and her son, Ormond Gould, of New York.

One of the most prized of the telegrams was that sent by Madge Evans, lovely cinema star, to whom Dr. Jacobs' late novel, "Not Knowing Whither He Went," was dedicated. It was Miss Evans who inspired the opus when he saw her starred in the picture, "Lovers Courageous."

Others who expressed solicitation, in addition to the scores of local friends and relatives, included Mrs. J. T. Lupton, Mr. and Mrs. Carter Lupton, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lupton, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Lupton, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Dr. Francis G. Pease, of Pasadena, Cal.; Paul Block and Crichton Clarke, of New York; Colonel Hollins Randolph, of New Orleans; Thomas R. Preston, president of the Hamilton National Bank, of Chattanooga, and John Francis Neylan, of San Francisco, Cal.

When Louise Moore Conklin entertained the general chairman of the Junior League Follies at luncheon last Friday, she struck the keynote of the anticipated production in her clever and unusual decorations. You see the Junior Leaguers have chosen a coronation theme for their Follies which will feature the calendar for late January.

So Louise chose the coronation color motif for her luncheon table, the polished table being set with coronation blue and silver place mats. In the center was a graceful arrangement of blue and silver balls, with small silver figures flanking either side of the center piece. The place cards were also treated in coronation blue.

The chairman present were Mesdames Claude McGinnis Jr., Murdoch Egan, Francis Gilbert, Edward Van Winkle Jr., Robert Pegram IV, Everard Richardson, Martin Kilpatrick, Gus Loyless, Reginald Field, Eugene Harrington, Edwin McCarty and Dan Conklin.

ELIZABETH HOLCOMB'S decision not to make her debut with the current group is a matter of regret to her friends. The removal to Miami of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holcomb has changed her plans to such an extent that when Elizabeth leaves Hollins College during the Christmas holidays, she will join her parents in Florida.

Her presentation to society was scheduled at a reception on December 28, to take place at the Piedmont Driving Club, and the event was to be among the notable social affairs of the season. The call of the sun and sunshine in Miami proved too alluring to Elizabeth, and she will leave the wintry weather in Virginia behind her on December 20, when she entrains for the "Land of Flowers."

"ALL THE FUN WAS GONE OUT OF LIFE"

says middle aged woman

Many women suffer from hot flashes, dizzy spells, nervousness and other annoying symptoms of the Change of Life. They get so blue and discouraged that life does not seem worth living.

"All the fun was gone out of life," complains Mrs. S. Manushak of 10907 Eddbrook Ave., Chicago. For five years I was going through a very bad time. I was nervous, had terrible headaches, could not climb stairs and felt swollen. Your Vegetable Compound worked wonders for me. It is a great medicine for any time of life, but especially at the Change and before menopause. My daughter Lucille used to faint at the office. Your medicine helped her and helped my daughter-in-law too."

"I Had Awful Hot Spells" says Mrs. Harry H. Price of 304 No. Harrison Ave., Kankakee, Illinois. "The Vegetable Compound put me into me and makes my work easy."

"What they need is a dependable medicine like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. Hollingsworth presented Mrs. J. A. Sanderson who reviewed the Walpole's "A Prayer for My Son." Tea was served from a beautifully appointed table by Mesdames A. R. Fitz-Simons, Herbert Henderson and L. C. Hollingsworth. Mrs. L. W. Adams was a guest of members.

Miss Marks Becomes Bride of Mike Bock At Home Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Sonia Marks and Mike Bock was solemnized yesterday at high noon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Bock on Peachtree drive.

The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Harry H. Epstein, in the presence of immediate relatives of the bride and groom. The ceremony took place in the living room before an altar composed of stately palms and ferns, and decorated with vases filled with white chrysanthemums.

The lovely bride wore a modish ensemble of beige wool, the coat being collared with beige fox fur. Her becoming hair was of brown left to the natural color, and a spray of orchids graced her shoulder.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Bock entertained at an open house for the bride and groom, and their friends called to meet them between 3 and 6 o'clock. Mrs. Bock, the hostess, was crowned in black crepe and white tulle.

Mr. Bock and his bride departed on their wedding trip the destination of which was not revealed. Upon their return next week hence they will reside in Atlanta.

Attending the wedding were Mrs. Cam M. Kaplan, of New York, the bride's sister, and her brothers, Ervin A. Marks, of New York, Larry Marks, of Miami, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Marks, of Miami, Fla.

Mrs. Curtis Visits Brown Owl Group

Mrs. Kathryn Frances Curtis, director of Girl Scouts in Asheville, N. C., and formerly a member of the national staff in New York as Brown Owl, will visit Atlanta's recently organized Brown Owl Association today and tomorrow for conferences and meetings.

The Brown Owl Association is the organization recently organized by Brown Owl leaders and is a training course conducted by Miss Lucile Cannon, director and Miss Sarah Bowman, field captain.

Mrs. Russell Bellman, regional chairman, entertained Mrs. Curtis at luncheon today at 1 o'clock at the Capitol City Club. Guests include Miss Katherine Park, regional director, Mrs. Kathryn Curtis, Mrs. Carl Hoehner, Brown Owl supervisor and Mesdames Sarah Bowman and Lucile Cannon of the local staff.

Mrs. Curtis will conduct a round table discussion with the Brown Owl Pack on Tuesday at 10 o'clock at the Girl Scout headquarters. A luncheon will be given at 12:30 o'clock in Rich's tea room. Guests will be Mesdames C. V. Minor, E. Williams, Richard Peters, R. A. Wise, W. L. Markert, W. S. Bush, B. F. Hedges, Donald Palmer, E. A. Ryder, Edward Kahn, R. Collier and Misses Adelaide Nelson, Viola James, Sarah Bowman and Lucile Cannon.

The training and personnel committee, which Mrs. Sam L. Cooper is chairman, will meet with Mrs. Curtis today at 11 o'clock. Personal conferences with Mrs. Curtis may be arranged by calling the Girl Scout office.

There are three active Brown Owl Packs, at Hillside, Miss Adelaide Nelson is leader, Jewish Educational Alliance, Mrs. Kathryn Curtis, Mrs. Carl Hoehner, Brown Owl supervisor and Mesdames Sarah Bowman and Lucile Cannon of the local staff.

St. Cecelia Chapter Cooking School. St. Cecelia's Chapter of the Parish Council of the Cathedral of St. Philip will sponsor a three-day cooking school at the chapter house beginning Tuesday morning and closing Thursday morning, from 10:30 to 12:30 o'clock. Mrs. Elizabeth Stanfield will conduct the school.

Special equipment will be installed in the chapter house. Mrs. Stanfield will demonstrate new dishes, special garnishes and delightful ways to prepare holiday food. Prizes will be given each day. Mesdames: Robert Cobb, J. C. Atkinson, S. Linton Smith and Miss Lucinda Snook are in charge of arrangements.

Miss Hazel Walton Weds Mr. Downing. Cordial interest centers in the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Clifford Walton, of the marriage of their only daughter, Hazel Louise, to Paul Lee Downing, son of Mr. and the late Mrs. Frank B. Downing.

The ceremony was performed on November 25, by the Rev. Father John A. Emmert, in the rectory of the Sacred Heart church, in the presence of the families of the bride and groom.

Mrs. Downing is a graduate of Girls' High school, where she was a member of the Alpha chapter of the Sigma Delta high school sorority. The groom received his education at Bore's High school and is now connected with a local firm.

Sorority Dance. The Gamma chapter of the Phi Alpha Kappa sorority will entertain 200 members of the Friday contingent at a dance on Friday at the Sherrin hall. Officers and members are: Miss Alice Brazz, president; Miss Catherine Gillooley, vice president; Miss Emily Lawler, secretary; Miss Roselyn Duncan, treasurer; Miss Mary Ellen Sasser, scribe; Misses Dannelle Archer, Mary Jane Baker, Marie Rutchell, Elizabeth Crossen, Marian Gillooley, Julia Hanlon, Jean Millard, Helen Mary Pagel, Annette Reilly and Margaret Mary Toomey.

Kentucky Club Holds November Meeting. The Kentucky Club met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Lee V. Godfrey, on East Wesley road, and Mesdames Newton B. Fowler and Minor Gardner were assisting hostesses. A garment show was given for the Needlework Guild, of which the club is a component part, as well as a jelly for the Gray Hospital auxiliary.

Dr. Herman Turner, of the Presbyterian church, gave a message on "Progress" as it relates to the world of today and the future. No meeting is scheduled for December the next one to be held in January at the home of Mrs. M. Ashby Jones. The weekly sewing meetings for the guild will be suspended during the holiday season.

The Kentucky Club was organized 13 years ago for purely social purposes and has for its slogan, "No Kentucky Lonely in Atlanta," and any Kentuckian, or descendant of a Kentuckian, is eligible for membership.

Christmas Fund Meeting. Past Matrons' and Patrons' Association of the Order of the Eastern Star will hold a called meeting on Tuesday evening at the courthouse for the purpose of completing plans for the Christmas fund for the Masonic home at Macon. Members are urged to make an effort to attend as this business is important. James Crawford Glone is the president.

Dr. Patterson To Address Hapeville Free School of Missions This Week

The First Baptist church of Hapeville secured the services of Dr. A. Scott Patterson, returned missionary from Africa, to deliver the inspirational address at the free school of missions to be held in the church for Hapeville and its vicinity on November 30 through December 4. Story periods for four groups begin at 2:30 o'clock each day, and will be told to small children by Mrs. Frank Wells, to junior girls by Miss Katherine Johnson; to intermediate girls by States, and to the United States and intermediate boys by Rev. E. E. Steele, formerly missionary to China. At 4:15 o'clock each afternoon Dr. Patterson will speak to the audience, and at 7:15 o'clock each evening the devotional exercises begin, and will be followed by the teaching of the young people's class by Miss Margaret Patterson, and the teaching of the adult class by Miss Ida V. Rhoad. Dr. Patterson will speak at 8:15 o'clock.

Miss Jewel Anderson Honored at Parties.

Miss Jewel Anderson, a bride-elect of December, was honored Saturday afternoon by Miss Marguerite Hammond at a bridge-shower at her home on Rosedale road. Assisting in entertaining was Mrs. H. B. Hammond, mother of the hostess.

Guests included Mesdames Jew Anderson, Anne Crain, Martha Cowan, Helen Tucker, Myrtle McKracken, Hattie McKay, Thelma Knox, Sara Laney, Peggy McMillan, Sara McWhorter, Mesdames Andy Fowler, W. C. Nolen and Joe Cameron.

On December 2, Mrs. Katherine Mercer will honor Miss Anderson at a shower. Mrs. Harry Morris will be hostess at a luncheon and kitchen shower on December 5, and Miss Evelyn Collins will entertain on December 12 at a luncheon at the Henry Grady hotel in her honor.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Matthews. She wore a suit of dark blue, with matching accessories.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Brady and a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. James M. Brady. The couple will make their home with the groom's parents in Tennessee.

The marriage of Miss Inez Mills, of Sandville, and Ellis Walden, of Sandville, took place Saturday in Louisville, Ky. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Mills, of Sandville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Walden, of Sandville.

Fulton County Road Engineer Surveys Peachtree Property

It will be of interest to the owners of property on Peachtree road to know that the sidewalks have been surveyed and that Earl E. Jones, Fulton county highway engineer, quoted prices for sidewalks in a letter to the Peachtree Garden Club in connection with the club's beautification project, which will interest property owners and may be obtained on request.

This is a splendid opportunity for property owners to pave sidewalks at a minimum cost," said Mrs. Valeria Manley, chairman of road beautification project. It is through the spirit of co-operation on the part of the Fulton county commissioners in agreeing to furnish labor free for laying sidewalks and curbs which makes this exceedingly low price possible. Road sidewalks are a wise investment, reducing the maintenance of walks, presenting a uniform appearance and adding to the property value. The Fulton county commissioners in agreeing to furnish labor free for laying sidewalks and curbs which makes this exceedingly low price possible. Road sidewalks are a wise investment, reducing the maintenance of walks, presenting a uniform appearance and adding to the property value.

Many sidewalks on Peachtree cannot be used by pedestrians on account of trenches washed through the center of the walks. Several of the seven churches in the Peachtree road section wish to pave sidewalks. Apartment house owners on Peachtree road are supporting the "keep clean plan" and several have signed their intentions of paving. Mrs. Frank Fleming, chairman of apartment houses, reports that the committee has received the full co-operation of apartment house owners, the real estate firms which lease the apartments and janitors who service them.

Managers of the grocery stores located on the east side of Peachtree road at the creek have employed a man to clean in front of their premises.

Plans were formulated for making Pace's Ferry road from Howell Mill road to Piedmont road more beautiful permanently at a meeting held Friday at the home of Mrs. Reuben Arnold, chairman of this section of the project. County labor will improve vacant property, clean sidewalks and remove grass from the road.

Those interested are being requested to beseech their garage contractors to cover their trucks and not scatter papers on premises, sidewalks and road. It is requested that an inventory be made of lawns, hedges and sidewalks. Pace's Ferry road is one of Atlanta's most important streets and Mrs. Arnold, in speaking of the keep-clean project, said, "We are counting on the co-operation of every property owner to help preserve the prestige of the road in order that it may deserve the reputation of beauty it now holds."

Assisting Mrs. Arnold in the Pace's Ferry road work are Mesdames Robert Maddox, Hugh Childs and Hugh Hodgson.

Keith circle, the first vacant property to be improved by the Peachtree Garden Club, has been planted, the terrace, 160 feet in length, planted in hardy berry-bearing shrubs, flowering trees and trailing jasmine; the banks planted in boxwood, and the clumps set out one square foot apart.

Vacant property at the corner of Peachtree road and Memorial drive will be the next improvement made by the Peachtree Garden Club. Banks will be graded, ditches filled, unsightly trees removed and the banks covered with evergreen vines.

My Day

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK CITY, Friday.—The taxi cab drivers in Boston were almost as observing as they are in New York. As I got out at the hospital yesterday afternoon my man looked at me rather searchingly and said, "Aren't you Mrs. Roosevelt?" At my nod, he proudly continued, "I knew you from your photographs"—a compliment which always appalls me, for most of the newspaper photographs are not very flattering.

Franklin Jr. and I had a very quiet afternoon and evening. He started off on telling him stories about various members of the family whom he is too young to know anything about. After while he remarked, "I think families are the most interesting things in the world," which of course is true, for in the story of every family is the stuff from which both novels and eventually, history is written.

Dr. Tobey, who is looking after Franklin Jr., begins operating at 9, so he told me to be at the hospital at 8:30. Therefore, I began my day with breakfast at 7:30. The waiter who brought it in greeted me kindly with "How's the boy?" And I was glad to be able to say he seemed so much better that I was going back to New York today, to see what I could of two other children who apparently are starting for Seattle in a very few days.

I flew over to New York in the big plane. Just as we got where we could look down on the Palisades, we apparently struck several little pockets of air, and we had several good hard bumps, but there was so little time left before we reached the air field that nobody seemed to be disturbed.

A kind acquaintance, Mr. George Baker, who happened to be on the plane, took me home in his car. When we crossed the city downtown, trucks were all about us, with great activity in all the little shops and on the sidewalks. I know so little about business that it always pleases me when my observations are confirmed by someone whose opinion is really worth something. Mr. Baker remarked, "Look at all this—there is no question about it, business is much better."

After leaving my bags, I went downtown to do a little shopping and make a few arrangements, as I wanted to see a friend at the hospital before going up to see my daughter and her children.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: Please tell me why country people are booted at and snubbed by people more ignorant than their targets. My parents moved from a rural community into a town, on a modest street. They came from good families, well-bred, industrious, educated and they have educated their children. Perhaps they are not as cultured and polished as some, though they are well informed from their reading and their desire for learning. Knowledge of the city alone to me is sheer ignorance. There are many edifying ways with which my parents are unfamiliar but they are financially comfortable, devout Christians; while the neighbors less educated set up an imaginary wall between them and my family merely because of country breeding. It is not that I see them through the eyes of a child that loves her parents, I am sure they deserve consideration on the hands of their closest neighbors.

CHILD.

Answer: It is an undeniable fact that many bred people snoot country bred ones and who knows why? Perhaps it is that those who live next to nature with their feet and hands in the soil become careless about the niceties of life which come first with city bred people. Ruralites usually have sterling qualities of character by reason of their contact with life's essentials and when they add cultural education to the basic virtues they are America's finest. One can't beat the combination of an educated mind and an educated heart and skillful hands.

City dwellers, on the other hand, tend toward artificial living, adopt artificial standards and they judge others by those standards. They set great store by fashion and feel the necessity for keeping up with the styles, not only in their clothes but in their homes and household equipment. They feel disgraced if the silver isn't laid properly and the dinner served according to Post. No matter how poor they may be, they spend their last dime to get that sleek city look which once they have acquired it, they are somewhat superior to all who haven't it. They are much more standardized than country people in their speech, their dress, their manners. The rugged individualism of the farm family is an offense in their nostrils. When their country cousins come to visit them, they may be indulgent with the unaffected simplicity of country clothes, manners and speech yet at the same time they are inclined to be aloof; for the cousins must be pruned before the city friends. Even though the ruralites have money they are not accustomed to spend it for "smartness" which is the goal of the urbanites. And if the rural kin is too heaven help them when they go visiting their city relatives.

How foolish it is! Nobody in America is many generations removed from the soil, and no matter how far removed one may be, one can't afford to forget that the simplicity and honesty and industry and thrift of those who live next to nature are virtues that none can dispense with. Every page is filled with fascinating stories in afternoon frocks—gay sports togs—stunning party clothes! Slimming styles for matrons! Budget-saving patterns!

It is frequently said that the most provincial people on earth are the residents of our greatest, grandest city. There they live and there they die without knowing anything about the great country of which their city is a small part. One day a cultivated gentleman from the provinces was hearing one of these provincial struts his stuff, telling what a sophisticated he was. The old gentleman asked him "Have you ever lived anywhere else in the States?"

"Can one live anywhere else?" came the supercilious response.

Now doesn't that answer the question as to why some city dwellers snoot the ruralites? They think the country people some low form of the genus amoeba that have never really lived and don't know what it's all about.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Contract Bridge

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily installments.

STRONG REBIDDABLE SUITS. A suit containing five or more certain trump tricks is called a strong rebiddable suit, and may be bid three times without support. The length of the suit may range from five cards to eight or even more cards.

Among the strong rebiddable suits are two types which, having distinct characteristics of their own, are separately classified:

Nearly ready-made suits, which are at least six cards in length and are headed by four of the five honors; or are seven cards in length and headed by three of the four top honors. The principal quality of such suits is that they contain not more than one loser, except against extremely improbable division of the remaining cards.

Ready-made suits go a step farther up the ladder. They also are at least six cards in length, and cannot reasonably be expected to lose a trick.

TODAY'S HAND. A great many correspondents ask me the correct opening lead on such inquiries, pointing out that in the department of opening leads particularly, some acquaintance with one's opponent's bidding tendencies is essential. Perhaps I should explain this. Let us assume that I sit West when the following bidding takes place:

South West North East
1 spade Pass 3 spades Pass
4 diam. Pass 4 spades Pass
6 spades

(North-South do not use asking bids.)

My hand, from which I must select an opening lead, is spade 9 7 4, heart K 10 5, diamond K 8 4, club J 4 2. Against some players of my acquaintance I would lead a diamond as fast as I could get it out of my hand. I would feel almost certain that their peculiar bridge mentality had produced the four diamond bid solely as a lead-preventer in diamonds.

Witness the fact that South had gained no information from his partner by the bid (since North had merely signed off at four spades), but still had jumped directly to six spades on his next turn. Against other players in the South position I would open a diamond because I would strongly suspect a double cross, i. e., that they were attempting to create in my mind the suspicion that they were trying to avoid a diamond opening. Obviously, in these guessing contests, you must know your opponents.

Consider the following hand:

North South
K 4
A K 9 5
A Q 6 5 2

WEST EAST
A K 4
J 7 6
10 6 2
K 10 9 8

SOUTH
Q J
A Q 10 9 5
Q 8 7
7 4 3

The bidding:
North East South West
1 diamond Pass 1 heart Pass
2 clubs Pass 2 hearts Pass
3 clubs Pass 3 no trump Pass

It should be quite obvious to any player in West's seat that South's final three no-trump is an out-and-out stab. His failure to bid two no-trump after his partner showed the two minor suits is indisputable evidence that he does not actually like a no-trump contract. He cannot be well fixed in spades, and any opening lead other than the spade king by West shows a pitiful lack of imagination. Obviously, on that lead, East should signal with the highest possible card, or, at the very least, a spade continuation of the contract is severely defeated.

Also, obviously, North and South should have placed the hand at four hearts. North should have raised the hearts after South's rebid, and six hearts would be made through good breaks in trumps, diamond and clubs.

Question: What should be the opening bid on the following hand:
A 9 Q 10 9 3 K J 6 4 K J 9 7

Answer: One diamond.

Things That Make Women More Beautiful

(Posed by Gertrude Michael.)

Take Care of Your Hands, Arms and Elbows, Sleeves Are Short This Winter

By MIGNON. (The Mignon who writes this column does not sell, endorse or manufacture any cosmetics.)

Sleeves are going to be short this winter whether you like it or not. They are the fashion, so women will wear them. This brings up the problem of how to take care of the hands, arms and elbows.

There are all kinds of hand creams on the market, but one that I particularly like is only when you first put it on, requires a little rubbing in order that it may be absorbed, and finally disappears completely. The trick it has is not disappearing too quickly.

It does marvels for the hands and arms. Perhaps you will think that the most attractive thing about this is the price, which is very moderate. The company that makes this cream specializes in things for the hands and arms, although they make other things as well. I can be perfectly honest in telling you that you will not waste your money in buying a jar of this hand cream, which is about the consistency of whipped cream.

If you want to know where you can purchase any article mentioned in this column phone Mignon at The Constitution, Walnut 6565. Please do not write unless you live outside the city, in which case enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

'Automobiles on Parade' Will Open At Dealers' Display Rooms Today

Automobiles, truck and trailers of every make and description will go on exhibition here today as Atlanta opens her own automobile show, "Automobiles on Parade," at the showrooms of a local dealer.

Approximately $5,000,000 worth of new cars, including all makes of 1937 passenger, delivery cars, trucks and automobile trailers, will be displayed in this show, which is being sponsored by The Constitution and the Atlanta automobile dealers.

As no building in the city is large enough to house the entire show, the exhibits will be held at the showrooms of the individual dealers. Arrangements have been made to provide transportation for Atlantans who desire to see the exhibition and have no means of reaching the respective showrooms.

Many of the sensational show cars from the New York and Chicago shows, cutaway chassis, cutaway motors and other display features, are being brought to the city for all who are interested in any phase of automobile transportation to see and examine.

Dealers taking part in the show will keep their places of business open until 10 o'clock each night, it was announced.

Automobile representatives have announced many new models will be shown at The Constitution-sponsored show for the first time anywhere in the city.

Included in the Atlanta show will be a number of the finest models of automobile trailers, the most popular automobile exhibit of the year. All types and prices, simple and elaborate, large and small, will be shown.

Remember, all this week, Atlanta's home show, "Automobiles on Parade," will continue at the showrooms of Atlanta's car dealers, and that you can see and closely inspect each make, model and design, at any hour of the day and until 10 o'clock each night.

SHOT THROUGH HEAD, MASONIC BODY TO ELECT

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 29.—Policeman Herman Stein was shot, perhaps fatally by Willie Frank Daniel, a negro, here this morning as the policeman attempted to arrest Daniel on a charge of robbing a gasoline filling station last night.

Stein was shot through the head once, a wound from which he is not expected to recover. Daniel escaped after the shooting and had not been apprehended late today. Stein, a native of Germany, has been a member of the Athens police force for about eight years. He is regarded as one of the most fearless and efficient members of the staff.

SOLO VISITS COLON. COLON, Panama, Nov. 29.—(P)—Mrs. Caroline O'Day, New York representative at large, took off by plane here today for Guayaquil, Ecuador, where she was to be the guest tonight of the Ecuadorian government.

ABOARD THE U. S. S. CHESTER, AT SEA, Nov. 29.—(P)—The cruisers Indianapolis and Chester, bearing President Roosevelt and his family, are en route to the Argentine capital of Buenos Aires, today were given a rousing welcome at sea by an Argentine squadron of 11 vessels.

President Roosevelt is due to arrive tomorrow afternoon in the Argentine capital and will attend the opening of the Inter-American conference on Tuesday.

First Lady Blesses BOETTIGER IN NEW JOB

Mrs. Roosevelt Gives Couple Parting Advice as They Leaves for Seattle.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(P)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt gave her blessing and parting advice to her daughter and son-in-law tonight as they headed direct to Seattle where both will assume positions on William Randolph Hearst's newspaper, the Post-Intelligencer.

Husky, broad-shouldered John Boettiger, who becomes a publisher in his thirty-seventh year, preferred not to discuss for the present the future policies of the newspaper whose three and one-half month strike was a major political issue in the Pacific northwest during the presidential campaign.

It has been definitely arranged for his wife, the former Anna Eleanor Roosevelt to write for the "P. I."

Knew of Plan. President Roosevelt was advised of plans of the couple to work for his arch campaign critic, Hearst, it was learned, within two weeks after election day. This was before the President sailed for South America and more than a week before Boettiger's appointment was announced.

Close friends of the Boettigers regarded their new tasks as extremely delicate. They recalled sharp denunciations of Hearst by Mayor John Dore of Seattle, against whom a movement has been launched, and predictions by him and Seattle labor leaders that Hearst would never be permitted "to return."

But press of the 60-year-old newspaper began rolling today again for the first time since August 13. Settlement of a new room strike, which was supported by the Seattle central labor council, was announced four days ago.

Boettiger expressed pleasure at returning to newspaper work, the location he followed in Chicago and Washington for 13 years before becoming assistant in 1934 to Will H. Hays, head of the Motion Picture Distributors and Producers in America.

His tall, vivacious wife was likewise enthused and her mother was "thrilled" and "very much interested" in the new life opening before them.

She came here Friday from the sickbed of her son, Franklin Jr., suffering from a sinus infection, to have a parting visit.

The Boettigers' departure has spoiled plans of the Roosevelts to have the entire family together again at the White House for Christmas. The President and James Roosevelt will be back from South America and Elliott Roosevelt, southwestern supervisor for Hearst Radio, Inc., promised to come from Fort Worth, Texas, with his wife.

"Stella" and "Buzzie," children of Mrs. Boettiger by her previous marriage to Curtis B. Dall and who have long been favorites at the White House, will join their mother in Seattle by Christmas.

"Stella" is Anna Eleanor Dall, now nine years old, and "Buzzie" is Curtis Roosevelt Dall, who is five. They will remain behind for the present with their governess.

Met in Seattle. The Boettigers had fond memories of Seattle. It was on their last trip there that they met for the first time. They were on the President's train during the 1932 campaign when Boettiger was a newspaper correspondent.

Boettiger has relatives in both Seattle and Tacoma, Wash.

This will be the second time that Boettiger joins a newspaper which has opposed his father-in-law. While in Washington he worked on the staff of the anti-administration Chicago Tribune.

Mrs. Boettiger will also be following her chosen life work. When they were married in January 18, she listed her occupation as a "writer."

ARGENTINE SQUADRON SALUTES F. D. R. AT SEA

President Will Attend Opening of Peace Conference Tomorrow.

ABOARD THE U. S. S. CHESTER, AT SEA, Nov. 29.—(P)—The cruisers Indianapolis and Chester, bearing President Roosevelt and his family, are en route to the Argentine capital of Buenos Aires, today were given a rousing welcome at sea by an Argentine squadron of 11 vessels.

President Roosevelt is due to arrive tomorrow afternoon in the Argentine capital and will attend the opening of the Inter-American conference on Tuesday.

The battleships Rivadavia and Moreno, the cruiser Almirante Brown and two divisions of four destroyers each, the United States vessels, 250 miles from Montevideo.

There was a calm sea and a bright sun.

Salutes of 21 guns were fired by the Argentine battleships and the cruiser. American flags were raised.

The American cruisers proceeded at low speed during the ceremonies with the Argentine crews manning the guns. Blue and white Argentine flags were flown.

The Argentine squadron then escorted the American vessels down the coast.

The Indianapolis will proceed up the river, Rio de la Plata, to Buenos Aires with President Roosevelt.

Members of the President's party aboard the Chester will be transferred at sea to the destroyer Phelps, after which the cruiser will refuel at Montevideo.

'YOUR FIGURE, MADAME!' By IDA JEAN KAIN.

SYMMETRY MEASURED BY INCHES. It has been said that every woman needs, from 16 to 60, personality and a good figure, and from 60 on . . . cash! Well, we can help you to get the good figure.

If you have normal bone structure and correct weight, well-toned muscle give you good measurements. The first thing is to determine where the figure is out of line. The mirror tells you, but familiarity breeds contempt—the tape measure is less kind and more exact! Be accurate with your measuring. Have the tape even with your shoulders. Measure the largest portion. Have the tape drawn comfortably loose rather than too tight.

Begin in the middle with the waistline measurement. To find your waistline, stand erect with hands on the hips, little fingers resting on top of the hip bones and thumbs and forefingers encircling the waist. The slimmest young thing of five feet can have a waistline of 24 3/4 inches. There is an allowance of one-eighth inch of waistline for each additional one-half inch of height, which makes the waistline of the average American girl (of five feet four inches) 25 3/4 inches.

Normal bust measurement is governed by chest structure. In the loveliest figures, the bust exceeds the chest by 3 to 4 inches. Take the chest measurement by passing the tape around the back and bringing it together above the bust. Take a deep breath and exhale before measuring. Then, take the bust measurement by passing the tape directly across the center of the bust. Do not force it tightly.

In measuring hips, place the hips and derriere the tape is placed around the buttocks and just under the hip bone in front. Keep the tape given an even pressure all around. Normal hip measurement depends on structure, but the smoothest hips do not exceed the bust measurement by more than 10 inches.

The thighs should be measured slightly above the center of the upper leg, or at the largest part. Beautiful thighs range from 21 to 22 1/4 inches.

Take the tape measure "est for symmetry." Measure the leg at the fleshy part, just below the knee, while standing squarely on the feet. Perfect legs measure from 12 to 13 inches to 13 1/2 inches.

To measure the upper arm, place the tape halfway between the elbow and the shoulder—again around the largest part. This measurement may range from 9 1/2 to 10 1/2 inches.

Every height and normal weight has its own possibilities of symmetry. You get the total effect of lovely measurements in the figure of Miss Joan Crawford: bust, 35 inches; waist, 26 inches; hips, 36 1/2 inches. Miss Crawford, of course, keeps her measurements in perfect through systematic exercise.

In the disproportionate figure, certain muscle groups need strengthening. This can be accomplished with the specific exercises which are given in this column from time to time.

Georgia Acclaimed as Greatest Comeback Team in Nation

Five times during October and November, Johnny Broadnax, of the Georgia coaching staff, got himself a reserved slab of concrete in various football stadiums, sat on it, and put the old inquiring eye on Georgia Tech's football team in action.

And the things he put down in his stenographer's note book were not in chicken-track shorthand notes but were rows of X's and little lines with arrows on the ends of them.

On Saturday the Georgia defense was such that Coach W. A. Alexander, of the defeated team, said following the game: "Georgia had done a superb job in scouting us and in preparing for the game."

All of which means you just turn to the assist column and mark down John Broadnax a very large assist.

Harry Mehre, of the Georgia team, said yesterday that Broadnax's scouting reports on Tech gave to him and the team, a complete and thorough picture of the Tech attack. "It was the best scouting job I ever saw," said Mehre.

Georgia used three defenses against Tech. From Broadnax's expert scouting reports, Georgia learned:

1—That Dutch Konemann was dangerous only if permitted to get through the line. They learned that never once all season had he been able to cut back on one of his runs. This enabled them to set for him. And Konemann was stopped all afternoon.

2—That when Fletcher Sims was in, they must step a tackle up into the gap on the strong side. The tackle was there when Sims, seeing that gap closed, unexpectedly went wide and scored Tech's one touchdown.

3—That when Sims was not in, it was best to play everything a bit wide.

This last knowledge and that which said that never once all season in any game in which he played had Konemann cut-back on a single run, was the most important. Next was the report on passes. Three defenses were employed.

"The team and I got the real picture of the Tech team's play from Broadnax's reports," said Harry Mehre. "He did a magnificent job and to him goes a large measure of the credit for our victory."

"WHAT WAS THE SCORE?"

So great was the emotional strain on the Georgia bench that some of the players and at least two coaches were so caught up with it they were not sure of the score when it was all done.

"We suffered over there," said one of the substitutes. "So much hung on the game for us that when Tech scored to lead 6 to 2 we didn't exactly know who was pitching. And then when we got ahead 9 to 6 it was just as bad."

"We all were so tense over there we couldn't keep our minds on the score but kept watching that game."

The strain on the rival cheering sections was almost as much. Not until Georgia scored its second touchdown to take a 16-to-6 lead did the Tech supporters give up. There was about five minutes left to play and at least two touchdowns were needed to give Tech the game. There wasn't time even for one as Georgia was playing.

Georgia's tackling was so hard and direct it produced fumbles. One of them, when Julius Caesar Hall tackled Dutch Konemann, put Georgia in position for a touchdown, the first one.

That tackling and the play of Glenn Johnson were the two chief factors in the winning of the game.

IDENTIFYING PULLMAN CARS.

On one of the specials coming back from Athens Saturday, a gentleman who had seen his favorite team defeated and who had lost money on same, was found in a befuddled condition in one of the vestibules.

"Here, here," said one of the staff of conductors, "you can't stay out here. What car are you supposed to be occupying?"

The sorrowing gentleman shook a foggy head.

"You don't know what car? Where's your ticket?"

"N my overcoat," said the gentleman with an effort.

"What cars are you in?"

Again the befuddled negative shake.

"What was the name of the car?" asked a member of the group.

He thought a moment, visibly attempting to concentrate.

"There was a sign," he said, "at one end of the car which said, 'Men.'"

The group was stopped cold. But just then a friend came by and rescued him. And took him back to his car which had a sign saying, "Men."

IT WAS A FUZZY FALL.

It was a fuzzy fall campaign, this one which has almost reached the end of the schedule.

A half dozen games remain in Dixie. None can make any material difference in the standings of the teams. Georgia Tech has an intercollegiate foe coming up in the California Bears who are due for an engagement at Grant field on December 26. Tennessee has to hurdle Ole Miss at Memphis on December 5.

No one anticipated any such season as the one which saw Vanderbilt defeated by Northwestern and four other teams. And no one figured Georgia Tech to defeat Kentucky so handsomely. And then drop all following games save the ones with Florida and Vandy and salvage only a tie with Vanderbilt.

No one expected much of Georgia in October, the material being what it was. And no one expected the Bulldogs to run below form in October and then wallop Florida, Tulane and Georgia Tech in November and earn a tie with Fordham.

Kentucky and Ole Miss likely were the most disappointing teams.

Certainly Tennessee and Alabama were the two which made the most of their seasons.

It was an autumn of upsets and some of them were quite, quite stunning. Ask the team that had one.

THE ROSE BOWL.

Teams at L. S. U. and Alabama are marking time.

Every time the telephone rings or a telegraph messenger pumps his bike up to the door they begin tingling and anticipating.

The Rose Bowl bid is due early this week. It means an enormous amount of prestige and a financial reward of about $80,000 to the team receiving the bid.

Which is something about which to have the jitters.

Southern teams have played at the Bowl often in the past decade.

Alabama was there in 1926 and 1927. In the 1929 game Georgia Tech was the entry from Dixie. In 1931 Alabama was back again. In 1932 Tulane was there, being the only southern team to lose in the bowl. Alabama was back again for the 1934 game.

And now, 1937 will see either L. S. U. or Alabama unless—Pitt gets the bid. Which isn't likely.

EIGHT WEEKS OF REST.

RIVERSIDE CASE DEFERRED UNTIL LATER MEETING

Charges of Ineligibility Will Be Aired Sunday at Augusta.

MACON, Ga., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The executive board of the Georgia Intercollegiate Athletic Association deferred today the question of Riverside Military Academy's eligibility during the 1936 football season until next Sunday.

Representatives of the G. I. A. A. held a called meeting here today and heard charges of ineligibility against players on the Riverside squad.

Members of the executive committee met preceding an open meeting and had placed before it Lanier 18, high school charges and heard representatives of Riverside answer them.

The meeting will be held next Sunday at Augusta, J. L. Skinner, president of the association, announced and he said some action would be taken then.

Coach Selby Buck, Principal Paul R. Anderson and Athletic Director A. J. Swann represented Lanier at the meeting today. Coach Red Sanders and Athletic Director C. J. Curtis were here in behalf of Riverside.

If Riverside is unable to disprove the charges next Sunday Lanier High and Boys' High may play for the conference title the following week end.

The local poets will continue practice this week.

Riverside Coach Hopes for Best.

Coach Red Sanders, whose Riverside side has just completed a strenuous schedule without defeat or tie, during which the Blue Battalion rolled up one of the most impressive records in southern prep football history, expressed surprise before going to the Macon meeting, that charges by Lanier that certain Riverside players were ineligible, would be given serious consideration by G. I. A. A. officials.

"Riverside adhered to the usual stipulations and submitted a record of each player for the G. I. A. A. files before the required time, October 18," declared Sanders, former Vanderbilt gridder.

"These charges, coming so late, and after my boys have done so splendidly, are like a bombshell. I can't understand it."

Sanders made it clear that championships were not of primary importance at Riverside, and that the Academy took careful measures at all times to play only boys whom it found to be entirely eligible.

"I feel certain the conference will act favorably toward us," said Sanders, "I know the faculty here is a favorable decision would be a tough blow for my boys, who gave all they had in every game, and who surely deserve the honors that have come their way."

Lanier was defeated decisively by Riverside early in the season.

S. E. C. PLACES 8 PLAYERS ON U. P. ALL-SOUTH TEAM

Gaynell Tinsley and Ace Parker Dominate Poll of Writers, Coaches.

By Tom Reynolds.

United Press Sports Writer.

Eleven dynamic players, leaders in a section which produces two of the nation's major undefeated teams, won places on the United Press' all-South football team, announced last night.

Carrying the spark that makes gridiron greatness and with the courage, speed and power to continue inspirational play through a grueling season, the 11 players represent the consensus of writers and coaches.

The Southeastern conference, where Alabama and Louisiana State emerged undefeated after one of the bitterest campaigns in years, dominated the all-South team, which represents the best of the South.

Power, weight, speed, deception and above all, courage, are represented in the 11 first team men. A line averaging 194 1/2 pounds from end to end, at the same time numbers linemen with the speed to pull out to run interference or to break through with devastating effect on the defensive.

Speed is emphasized in the backfield, averaging 173, reflecting the emphasis on deception in the south this year. The team average is 180 1/2 pounds.

Two great inspirational players, Clarence "Ace" Parker, Duke's back; and Gaynell Tinsley, Louisiana State's end, dominated the poll of southern writers and coaches.

Tinsley, unanimously rated as the greatest end the south ever has produced, and Parker, bracketed by Walter Camp with Heisman Trophy winners John Cain as the greatest backs in southern history, headed virtually every first team in the south-wide poll. Both were on the United Press' all-South team.

Pressing this great pair for unanimity of support was "Phantom Phil" Dickens, the leader who made Tennessee a great team that has been soundly defeated by Alabama.

Time Out! By Chet Smith

"I caught 'em over by Georgia Tech, runnin' 'round in their underwear!"

Earl Mann in Quest Of 2 Good Pitchers

Cracker President En Route to Montreal; Thinks He Has About Landed Second Baseman

By Jack Troy.

EN ROUTE TO MONTREAL, CANADA, FOR NATIONAL BASEBALL MEETING, November 29.—President Earl Mann, of the Crackers, sat listening to the clicking of the wheels.

"They seem to be saying, over and over, who's going to pitch? ... who's going to pitch?" he mused.

"That's the big problem facing us," he continued. "We must have two good pitchers and I think I know where I can get them."

President Mann had a list of names as long as a hard loser's face, names of baseball men whom he will converse with in regard to pitchers and other baseball talent at the national baseball meeting which opens Tuesday in Montreal.

Asked about the possibility of Emil Leonard or Emil Mailho, or both, returning to the Crackers, the debonair Cracker president made no comment.

SECOND BASEMAN.

He said, regarding the second baseman to replace Jim Lipscomb, who had stood up well under the pressure of Saturday at Athens. He was in the mood to talk some wrestling and talk he did, not once mentioning the fate of the Crackers, for whom he once played an All-American tackle.

"I've got it," he said, grinning like a schoolboy. "Got what?" countered the perplexed reporter. "Why, that match game at New Orleans, where I saw him. Hadn't you heard—that return match between Dory Roche and Karl Davis?"

The reporter admitted to hearing something about a wild match between Davis and Roche at the Atlanta theater last Friday night in which Davis was declared a questionable winner, with the enraged Roche finally knocking down both the referee, Tiny Ruff, and his giant opponent.

"That's it," shouted Speer. "That's it. I've signed them for a return match this Friday night. Boy, what a battle that was! Davis didn't want any more of Roche, but I knew he'd come around if the proper terms were offered. Well, everything is all set."

And with that, the successful young matchmaker ambled back to his newly procured filling station, promising an announcement of two supporting matches quicker than it takes to pump up a tire.

SET ON CATCHERS.

"Nothing's the matter with Jim Galvin as a B catcher," he ventured. "And certainly you wouldn't want a better backstopper than Paul Richards."

Then, too, we have Johnny Hill for third base. Wee Buster Chatham for shortstop and Alex Hooks for first base, he added.

Mr. Mann promised the Crackers might consider making a supreme sacrifice and trade a couple of players for an outfielder or pitcher.

It's definite that neither Al Browne nor Peck Hamel will return. And there's a chance Bill Schmidt will not be back in the fold.

Really, the only pitchers left are Bobby Durham, Ralph West and Jim Lindsey. And Big Jim, the life of the party, may not return.

Mr. Mann continued to listen to the click of the wheels on rails. They were a perpetual motion picture which he was not in a position to answer.

PITCHING PROBLEM.

"Who's going to pitch?" It's a pressing problem. "They're like that tough here's to us, good men are hard to find." Good pitchers are rather difficult to obtain. It is far from easy to replace such men as Bud Thomas and Al Williams.

Mr. Mann promised the Crackers fans good news as the result of this expedition into the Canadian wilds. The Cracker president has gone a-hunting for baseball talent and he took his gun along.

In the midst of all this "setting" of the Crackers of 1936, the question as to where the club will train is one of the unsettled problems.

It may be Gulfport, again. Or maybe some inland or west coast town in Florida. Gulfport seems to be leading by a slight majority with the early returns in.

Ralph Guldahl Wins Augusta Open With 283

AUTO SALESMAN RALLIES TO WIN WITH GREAT 67

Picard, Shute Split $1,300 Second-Place Money With 285's.

By Kenneth Gregory.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Striking down the stretch in a garrison finish, slender Ralph Guldahl overtook the field today to win first place money in the $5,000 Augusta open golf tournament with a 72-hole score of 283.

The St. Louis automobile salesman stroked the last 18 holes in 67, four under par, to split up $1,000 and triumph with two strokes over Henry Picard, of Hershey, Pa., and Denny Shute, of Boston, recently crowned P. G. A. champion.

Guldahl, a 100-to-1 shot at the outset of the tournament, triumphed in "dark horse" style, putting together rounds of 75-71-70-67. His low-score streak put him out ahead of Harry Cooper, of Chicago, in the race among professionals for the Radix trophy, emblematic of low-scoring honors.

CLOSE FINISH. Picard and Shute split $1,300 prize money for second place. Back of this pair with 285's came Tommy Armour, of Chicago; Al Watrous, of Detroit, and Jimmy Hines, of Garden City, La. They divided $1,100.

Guldahl tied with Cooper and Watrous for low-scoring on the final round and established a three-way lock for a new competitive record over the Forrest Hills course.

Tommy Manasco, of Greenboro, N. C., national open champion, who led the field after 36 holes with a 140, needed 74 and 73 strokes today and finished in a tie with Paul Runyan, of White Plains, N. Y., at 287. They split $475.

Grouped at 288 were Les Madison, of Hollywood, Cal.; Abe Espinosa, of New Orleans; Ky Laffoon, of Chicago, and Horton Smith, of Chicago. They were trailed with 289's by Willie MacFarlane, of New York; Jimmy Demaret, of Houston, Texas; Cooper and Byron Nelson, of Ridgewood, N. Y.

MANGRUM, MELHORN. Ray Mangrum, of Louisville, and Bill Melhorn, of Louisville, finished with 291's, a stroke in front of Pat Sawyer, of Washington, D. C.; Bobby Crutchank, of Richmond; Leonard Dodson, of Springfield, Mo., and Craig Wood, of Deal, N. J.

Willie Goggin, of San Francisco, with 293, finished just out of the money, which was divided among 22 players.

The low amateur trophy went to Leon Pettigrew, young University of Indiana student, who had 301.

McCarthy, of New York, who was next in the simon pure ranks with 317.

In the battle for the low-scoring trophy, Guldahl's 283 was 61 rounds, including the current tournament, is 71.70 as compared with Cooper's 71.74 for 78 rounds.

Charles Moore, of New York, who was played that figure in the individual low-scoring. They are in the Miami Biltmore, starting December 3.

A Lion Pounces on an Indian

With the fury and agility of a real jungle lion, one of Columbia University's Lions leap high in the air and crushes down Jim Coffis, one of the Stanford Indians, in their game at New York which Columbia won, 7 to 0. Coffis was trying to get through the line with the ball—but he didn't get far.

THE SPORTLIGHT by GRANTLAND RICE

THE HAUNTING GHOST.

The ghost of possible interference on a forward pass is now beginning to haunt every football game. It almost upstaged the Yale-Dartmouth game, it wrecked the Dartmouth-Princeton meeting and it was the decisive factor in the Army-Navy display before 103,000 spectators.

The trouble here is not with the officials as it is with the play itself—what too often is the hair-line variety that might be called either way. Naturally, the official has to call it as he sees it.

Just what to do with this wild will of the gridiron is puzzling Walter Oakeson, chairman of the rules committee, and most of the coaches. "What can we do about it?" Oakeson asked. "If we remove all penalties on interference and make it a free ball, a sort of catch-as-catch-can, injuries will begin to pile up. If we reduce the penalty to only 15 yards, they'll wreck the receiver on every possible or probable touchdown pass. No one knows how many hours the rule makers and the coaches have spent over this puzzling problem without arriving at an answer. No one knows how many hours the rule makers and the coaches have spent over this puzzling problem without arriving at an answer.

Only a year ago Army lost a winning lead to Notre Dame in the same way, so, by this time, it would be a big mistake to introduce anyone to Lieutenant Gar Davidson by the name of interference.

I put the argument up to such smart football men as Red Blaik, of Dartmouth; Dick Hendrix, of Johns Hopkins; and other leading coaches at the Army-Navy game. All admitted something had to be done, but just what this should be brought about several differences of opinion. At least, penalties that decide entire football games seem just a trifle drastic, to break it gently.

The Rose Bowl. With Washington all set as the west coast defender, L. S. U. takes the lead as challenger, with Alabama in second place. These two teams are almost certain to go to either the Rose or Sugar Bowl. So far as the northern entry for the Sugar Bowl is concerned, Pittsburgh is the leading choice if the Panther came to leave his northern lair for the sugar cane country of the south.

So far as L. S. U. is concerned, such eminent opponents as Ralph Sasse and Harry Mehre, of Mississippi State and Georgia, respectively, still insist the Louisiana State is the best team in the country, not even barring Minnesota.

At any rate, L. S. U. moves up on a par with Minnesota in the highly mythical national ranking, with Washington close up.

Alabama is also high in the rating and no one can crowd Pittsburgh far from the top when it comes to team strength in both backfield and line.

No four teams in the country are better equipped in the way of all-around strength than L. S. U., Minnesota, Washington and Pittsburgh. They have all that it takes—power, speed, line and backfield reserves—plus that important ingredient known as experience.

I doubt that any other team outside of this group has as much all-around equipment. Three of these teams were beaten and L. S. U. was tied in a game where she fumbled 15 times against Texas, with Texas recovering 13, according to our southern scouts.

In the matter of consistent team strength up to 30 or 35 men, these four teams are the ones most of the coaches name as the hardest to beat.

A Typical Example. You can get almost a complete picture of this last season from the story of New York University.

Here was a team that opened a campaign smothered under a 60-to-0 count by Ohio State. Yet this same team was the one that pumped out a Rose Bowl candidate in its final game—a Fordham team that had come through five tough contests without a defeat.

The Stanford team that tied Washington, Rose Bowl defenders, strong enough to crush Washington State, 40 to 0, was defeated by Stanford, 20 to 0. That's the way 1936 football went.

It was a big year in the east for Yale, Dartmouth and Pennsylvania, who moved up many notches. It was also a golden year for Navy, in spite of three defeats, which played before more than 400,000 spectators to lead

LANDIS CHARGES FAKE; DECLARES 2 FREE AGENTS

Lee Handley, John Peacock, Former Vols, Lost to Cincy Team.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, in a statement which termed the records of both players "a pure fake," declared as free agents today Lee Handley and John G. Peacock, the Cincinnati Reds National league baseball club.

Handley, an infielder, played early in 1936 with the Reds before being traded to Toronto of the International league. Peacock, a catcher, trained with the Reds last spring and then was sent to Nashville. He had been recalled for duty in 1937.

Landis' statement said Peacock's official record had him optioned to Toronto by Nashville early in 1936 and that after the option had been canceled, assigned by Nashville to Cincinnati for $200. Handley's record, the commissioner said, had him assigned outright by Toronto to Cincinnati in 1935, optioned by Cincinnati to Toronto early in 1936 and recalled by Cincinnati late last season.

Asserting that "the record ought to speak the truth," Landis said, "the fact is, however, that to these players the whole record is a pure fake. Toronto never had any independent real title to the contract of either player. At all times the Cincinnati club—acting through its vice president and general manager—completely dominated and controlled Toronto's attitude toward these players and Toronto's disposition of the players and their contracts."

"In plain truth the Toronto club corporation had no more control over or title to either Handley's or Peacock's contract than did the Toronto baseball club," Landis said. "It was observed that Handley was traded from Toronto to Cincinnati direct while Peacock went from Toronto to Cincinnati via Nashville. However, Nashville acted only as a turnstile, and so understood it."

Landis said the players are free to sign with any club except Cincinnati, or any of its affiliates. The prohibition Landis said, will expire December 1, 1938.

MEXICAN MEETS ITALIAN TONIGHT

Count Pedro Rossi, the Italian powerhouse, and his little negro valet, will make their second appearance at the new Spring street arena Monday night, where he meets Don Jose, popular Mexican matman. The Italian brings everything with him to the arena, including a Van Dyke beard, monocle, walking cane, "loaded," and a series of "coco" and "coco" changes his complete wrestling wardrobe between falls. He states he wears different tights to give him luck.

Rossi carried a near-riot last week when he defeated the Indian. Four spectators tried to "crowd" him going to the dressing room and he floored two for "coco" before being stopped by the police.

Chin Lee, the Chinese jiu-jitsu star, will meet Farmer Mack, French-Canadian, in the semi-final. Farmer Mack represents Canada on the Olympic team, and his record in the eastern states rates him as one of the best in the game.

Tony Espinalo, Italian, will meet Bad Boy Brown in the opening 30-minute match on the program, which should be a thriller.

The Spring street arena is located at the corner of Spring and Peter streets. Reserved seats may be obtained in advance by calling MA 2539.

Martin Buxby Wins Lakeland Net Meet

LAKELAND, Fla., Nov. 29.—(AP) Martin Buxby, of Miami, hit his peak in the finals of the third annual Lakeland open tennis tournament and eliminated top-seeded Arthur Hendrix, of Lakeland, in straight sets.

Keeping his drives flashing across the net under near-perfect control, Buxby made a number of seemingly impossible returns. He ran out the first two sets, 6-1, 6-1, and encountered real opposition only in the final set, when Hendrix slowed down the pace and gained control of his forehand.

Hendrix trailed, 2-5, at one time. In an all-Miami women's singles finale, Marta Barnett upset Eunice Evers, 6-1, 6-6.

She and her partner reached the mixed doubles finals by downing Glen Wilson, of Orlando, and Mrs. Joe Dillon, of Philadelphia, 6-3, 6-6, and defeating the third round losers, Gladys Vallebuena, of Miami, 6-4, 6-3.

Layton and Reisel Score at Billiards

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Johnny Layton, of Sedalia, Mo., and Otto Reisel, of Philadelphia, mined much backing in the fight for the world's three-cushion billiards title, now held by Willie Hoppe, of New York.

Layton defeated Kinney Matsuyama, 50 to 20, in 28 innings, while Reisel came from behind to upset Walker Cochran, of San Francisco, 50 to 49, in 30 innings.

Hoppe defeated Tiff Denton, of Kansas City, Friday night.

BIKE RACE OPENS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Before a crowd of 14,000 fans, said to be the largest turnout ever for the opening night of this semi-annual event, the 61st international six-day bicycle race got under way in Madison Square Garden tonight, with a field of 15 teams.

The east and more up close to Notre Dame, which still has an 80,000 crowd waiting next Saturday in Los Angeles. Notre Dame will finish around the 450,000 mark to lead them all.

Attendance records will break all past figures when the total count is in. Army and Navy easily could have played to 200,000 in the last of the requests turned back. That would have meant an $800,000 gate for just one game.

It's Tide or I. S. U.--- Loss of Coin Looms

SEATTLE, Nov. 29.—(AP)—It may take a flip of a coin to decide the University of Washington's football opponent in the big Rose Bowl game, when Ray Eckmann, athletic director, left for the south today to make arrangements for the Pasadena New Year's Day classic, he still refused to give an inkling as to what team might be chosen from the east or south.

He did admit, in a way, that it might require a flip of a coin to decide between Alabama and Louisiana State if the choice narrowed down to those two.

Eckmann expects to announce the opponent this week, possibly Wednesday, in Los Angeles.

Immediately upon his arrival there, Eckmann will confer with Tournament of Roses officials about the list of eligible candidates.

Traveling with Eckmann are Carl Kilgore, manager of athletics; Roy Rosenthal, director of publicity, and Wally Walstrom, University auditor.

Close friends of Eckmann said tonight they believed the choice lay between Alabama and Louisiana State, but they would not venture a prediction. Eckmann has an impressive record—no defeats, and a tie apiece. The general feeling among the Washington players, who have been given a two-week rest, is that either would provide ranking opposition.

Sugar Bowl Bid Not Yet Issued.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Joe Cousins, chairman of the football committee of the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Association, said tonight the committee met earlier today and "muddled over" the Sugar Bowl situation but had not, as yet, issued any "We haven't reached any decision," he replied to questions. "We'll make our announcement Tuesday."

While Cousins would not say whether the committee had narrowed down its selections to Louisiana State, Alabama, Santa Clara and Pittsburgh, as was reliably reported, he admitted the committee had sent these four schools, among others, "feelers" to sound out the teams' attitudes toward playing in the New Year's Day gridiron classic here.

It was considered almost certain that either L. S. U. or Alabama, whichever isn't asked to Pasadena to play in the Rose Bowl, would play as southern representative in the Sugar Bowl. An intersectional opponent was expected to be either power Pitt or the undefeated, untied Santa Clara.

BREAK O' DAY

a member of the secret lodge of El Trojan, founded at Tucson, Arizona, in December of 1933, Mr. James H. Burns, finally fell a victim to the Lawrenceville highway to Athens.

It gave him a broken leg on Saturday, a badly broken leg, which will keep him in the hospital for eight weeks and on crutches for a few more. He took it gamely as we knew he would. He helped hold the broken ends of bone together while they moved him from the wrecked car and at last into an ambulance.

All of us who travel to Athens often each football season dread that stretch of road. But now that it has happened Mr. Burns seems bearing up well. He has a beautiful nurse, an attractive room and eight weeks in which to rest and read. He is a fine fellow and a fine newspaper man and we all wish him a speedy recovery.

CLEAN UP CHEST DRIVE RIVERS WILL ADDRESS WILL BE BEGUN TODAY STATE WOMEN VOTERS

Campaign Chairman Predicts Success in Achieving Goal. Governor-elect Rivers will be principal speaker and honor guest at a luncheon meeting tomorrow of the Georgia League of Women Voters, which opens its fifteenth annual convention at 8 o'clock tonight at the Ansley hotel.

Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state administrative officer of the Georgia League of Women Voters, will preside at the opening session tonight. All meetings will be held at the Ansley hotel.

Miss Shepperson will speak on "Contemporary Georgia—Federal Cooperation," and will discuss the activities of the federal government in Georgia. Palmer will repeat an illustrated address which he recently gave at Harvard, Dartmouth, Princeton and before the New York Building Congress, "The War on Slums." This address is illustrated by motion pictures taken in extensive world travel.

Mrs. J. O'H. Sanders, general chairman of the convention, will preside, and the session will be open to the public.

29 PERSONS KILLEDIN ECUADOR UPRISING

QUITO, Ecuador, Nov. 29.—(AP)—It was officially announced today that 29 persons were killed and 60 wounded in the unsuccessful revolt of a regiment in the Ecuadorian army Saturday.

Many persons were arrested in the uprising, including Pedro Velasco Ibarra, brother of former President Velasco Ibarra, and several unidentified foreigners. The daily newspaper, El Dia, was closed and its director, Ricardo Jaramillo, was imprisoned. It was officially announced that the revolt of a section of the regiment

"Calderon" was suppressed after four hours' fighting which broke out when the military high command weakened the unity of the regiment in order to frustrate what the government believed was a plot for a rebellion this week.

Sergeant Mena started the hostilities by shooting and wounding the regiment's commander, Augustin Pazmino, after he had ordered a march. Soldiers then began firing at officials who ran out of the barracks, killing Captain Carlos Pena Herrera, and Second Lieutenant Bolivar Herrera.

HERBERT J. DICKSONWILL BE BURIED HERE

Funeral services for Herbert J. Dickson, Worcester, Mass., manager for the Coca-Cola Company, who dropped dead Saturday in Worcester, will be held today in Atlanta. The body will be brought today to the mortuary of H. M. Patterson & Son.

Mr. Dickson was a former Atlantan and a native of this city. He was sent north by the Coca-Cola Company about 10 years ago and had been transferred to Worcester from Providence, R. I., only two weeks ago.

SECRECY SHROUDSZAHAROFF FUNERAL

Outsiders Characteristically Banned From Simple Rites for Sir Basil.

VALLAGUJARD, France, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Sir Basil Zaharoff, international munitions merchant, was buried here today in the little chapel at his Chateau Balincoourt home in the presence of a few relatives, friends and employees.

The funeral was conducted with the same secrecy that characterized Sir Basil's life and outsiders were not permitted within the palace grounds.

The body arrived at the chateau shortly after midnight from Monte Carlo, where Sir Basil died Friday.

At 9 a. m. brief funeral services were held and the body placed in a crypt in the tiny chapel, standing at the end of an avenue of poplars leading from a pond in the front of the Balincoourt mansion.

The body was placed beside that of his wife.

Seven persons attended the services, including the Countess of Bourbon, Sir Basil's adopted daughter, who accompanied the body from Monte Carlo.

Bing Crosby 'Wants To Forget' About Fistic Challenge to Sailors

Tars Jeer Crooner in 'Hot Spot' and Follow Him to Auto.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Bing Crosby, crooning film and radio star, explained today that a fistic challenge he had issued to a portion of the United States navy was due to "tangled tempers."

The actor's statement concerning the affair at San Diego yesterday was relayed by his brother, Larry Crosby.

Bing, stung by jibes of a group of sailors who had followed the crooner from a night spot to his parked automobile, offered to battle the crowd, one at a time, his brother said.

Bing declined to talk directly of the incident, but Brother Larry told newsmen:

"He wants to forget the whole thing entirely, but you can quote him as saying, 'there are no hard feelings—it was mostly a matter of tangled tempers.'"

Larry said he obtained the story second-hand, but insofar as he could learn, this happened:

Bing motored to San Diego and dined at a night club. A group of sailors, recognizing him made remarks bordering on crooners in general and to Bing in particular.

The actor tried to retire smilingly, but was followed to his car by his hecklers, and the jests grew noisier. Bing suddenly became warlike.

"I don't want any trouble, boys—get that straight," he said. "But if you guys will come at me one at a time I'll take on one, or all."

Some accounts Larry Crosby heard indicated that a blow or two was struck. Others declare Bing found no immediate takers.

Before anything serious happened, Bing interfered.

Bing was accompanied by a male companion but his identity was not disclosed.

Holdup men and thieves were active in Atlanta over the week end, it was learned with two holdups, one attempted holdup, a burglary, and two larcenies reported to police yesterday.

J. L. Tarbush, of 802 Murphy avenue, told police two white men in an automobile held him up on Hopkins street. After taking $36 from him, they fled in the car, Tarbush said.

Two negroes stopped Sam Morris, of 284 Peters street, as he was returning home Saturday night, and while one held a knife to his throat the other took $12 from his pocket, he told police.

A good left arm proved the difference between being held up and getting home safe for L. O. Quinn, of 32 Ada avenue. N. W. Quinn told detectives two white youths, about 18 to 20 years old, stepped in front of his car at Peachtree and Walton streets early yesterday morning.

One leaped to the running board but Quinn knocked him off and drove to Broad and Walton streets, where he stopped. Police were told. The would-be bandits ran after him and again one boarded the car. Quinn said he started quickly and tried to throw the youth off as he turned the corner, but in no avail, so again he knocked him off.

A burglar, who left bloody fingerprints, entered the home of Mrs. Jane Miller, 316 Ninth street, early yesterday morning by breaking the glass of the front door. Amount of property taken was undetermined. The burglary was discovered by a newsboy.

Three youths were arrested with nine quarts of milk yesterday morning by Radio Patrolmen R. E. Finley and E. E. Hooten after a quart of milk had been stolen from 90 Maddox drive. Tommie Handley, 18, of 420 Piedmont avenue, was booked on charges of larceny and Charles Richardson, 13, of 231 Merritts avenue, N. E., and Jack Hayes, 14, of 201 Pine street, N. E., were taken to the juvenile detention home.

CINCINNATI EXECUTIVE VICTIM OF PICKPOCKET

W. H. Tuttle, of Cincinnati, assistant treasurer of the Procter & Gamble Company, told police his pocket was picked last night at the Union Station as he waited for a train. His pocketbook, containing $80 cash and two checks of $50 each, was taken, he said.

After reporting his loss to police, Tuttle boarded his train and returned to Cincinnati.

MOLLISON OVER TUNISIN CAPETOWN FLIGHT

TUNIS, North Africa, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The airplane, Dorothy, carrying Captain James A. Mollison and Captain Edouard Cornillon-Molnier on their projected speed dash from Capetown, England, to Capetown, South Africa, was sighted over Tunis at 6:27 p. m. Greenwich meridian time today, apparently headed for Tripoli.

MOLLISON AIMS AT MATE'S MARK

CROYDON, England, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Captain James A. Mollison and Captain Edouard Cornillon-Molnier took off at 9:31 a. m. today on their projected speed dash to Capetown, South Africa.

They said they hoped to make the return trip to England within five days. The present England-Cape-town records, both ways, are held by Mollison's wife, Amy, who flew the southern leg in 3 days, 6 hours, 20 minutes, May 7, and the northern leg in 4 days, 16 hours and 18 minutes.

Her times eclipsed previous records set by Captain Mollison.

JAP-ITALO PACT.

NANKING, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Chinese spokesmen said today they considered the Japanese-Italian accord affected Chinese interests much more seriously than the Japanese-German pact because "the Rome decision directly affects Chinese territorial sovereignty" by Italian recognition of the separate state Manchukuo.

ALABAMA ASSEMBLY

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Alabama's special session legislature, saddened over the death today of Senator H. L. Glover of Washington county, will reconvene Tuesday but probably will delay the scheduled fight over taxes and prohibition repeal as a mark of respect to Senator Glover's memory.
